Sanity Hearing Under Way for Accused Slayer

A hearing to determine the sanity of Cleo V. Keaton, accused slayer of Maurice Francis of Williamsport on Mar. 23, opened today in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

The court session recessed at noon after more than an hour of testimony from a Lima State Hospital staff psychiatrist. He was on the stand for both direct and cross-examination.

Keaton had entered pleas of innocent and innocent by reason of insanity to the first degree murder charge. He was placed in the Lima institution by the court for an observation period, and was later ruled legally sane by examining psychiatrists.

Emmanuel Nadlin, a Dayton attorney and counsel for Keaton, requested the sanity hearing.

BEFORE testimony was given, Nadlin asked that the record show he had made a request for a jury to hear the question on Keaton's sanity. According to Nadlin's statement, the presiding judge's discretion rules as to whether a jury is permitted to hear the evidence and render a verdict. Judge Ammer denied the request.

Taking the witness stand for the morning session was Dr. Theodore Reshetlylo, staff physician and psychiatrist of the Lima State Hospital.

It was Dr. Reshetlylo's report to the court that ruled Keaton "sane."

Nadlin's cross-examining of the doctor brought out the actual time of examining and interviewing that the report was based on. The doctor testified that he had seen Keaton personally on three occasions and spent approximately two hours with him and about another three hours in outside study of the case.

The Dayton attorney's line of questioning seemed to be directed toward bringing out the inadequacy of the staffs and time spent with patients, particularly Keaton, at the state institution.

Another part of the report on Keaton, made by a staff psychologist, noted that the defendant showed "extreme psychotic responses" to certain tests. The report also stated that Keaton "might be capable of psychotic type behavior."

Nadlin's efforts to break down the thoroughness and adequacy of Keaton's examination was interrupted by Judge William Ammer's decision to recess for lunch. The hearing was to resume at 1:15 p. m.

Picket Plane Crash Cause Under Probe

FALMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — One of three surviving crewmen of an Air Force radar picket plane that crashed at sea with 19 men aboard was quoted today as saying the huge four-engine craft struck the water "like hitting a brick wall at 100 miles an hour."

Otis Air Force Base Wing Commander Raymond Gallagher talked with the three crewmen at the base hospital as search efforts continued for seven men still missing some 100 miles northeast of Nantucket Island.

Nine bodies were recovered Monday during a massive sea and air search hampered by thick fog, rain and six-foot-high seas.

Gallagher said Airman 1.C. John N. Puopolo, 25, radar technician, of Boston was in the most serious condition of the three survivors. He was carried to the hospital in a stretcher.

The two others, Lt. Bruce E. Wither, navigator, of Otis Air Force Base and Redding, Calif., and Airman 2.C. David A. Surles, 24, technician, of Falmouth and of Raleigh, N.C., were cut and bruised, but only slightly. They're in "real good shape," Gallagher said.

The three men were kept afloat by life jackets for more than eight hours until finally spotted by helicopters, rescued and put aboard a German navy destroyer. Transfers were later made to the U.S. Navy carrier Wasp before the men were flown back to Otis.

Some 16 hours elapsed before word from the Coast Guard that there were three survivors — and not 10 or 11 as had been reported through most of Monday.

Capital Set For Shriners

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today is parade day for fun-loving Shriners and an estimated 250,000 persons are expected to watch a carnival assortment of bands, horses, clowns and 20,000 fezz-topped nobles strut down Pennsylvania Avenue.

The annual meeting of the Shriners, largest convention in Washington history, began its five-day run Monday. High points for the 100,000 conventioners and their families are today's parade and another scheduled for Thursday night.

The six-hour parade today includes more than 100 floats, 200 white horses, camels, a motorcycle corps and the usual assortment of bands instrumented with anything that makes noise — from ash can drums to bagpipes.

Another Effort Made On Foreign Aid Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House conferees meet for the 10th time today for another try at settling their major differences over the $3.36-billion foreign aid authorization bill.

They broke up a meeting last week apparently as far apart as ever on whether to authorize that much for this fiscal year and the next as well — as the Senate voted — or provide it for the current fiscal year only, as the House insists.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Jet Propulsion Laboratory scientists are set to rouse Mariner 4 from a month-long sleep at 7:30 a. m. PDT Wednesday with a command to warm up its camera for history's first close-up pictures of Mars.

If all goes well, 21 pictures will be taken some 10 hours later as the U.S. spacecraft flies within 6,000 miles of the planet believed most likely to shelter extraterrestrial life. The first

GOP Leader Claims LBJ Stifles Opposition Voice

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said today that President Johnson is trying to "drown out" any views other than his own on domestic and foreign policy.

One reason for this, Ford contended, is politics.

Ford at a news conference Monday accused Johnson of being "a dangerous advocate of one-party government."

In a follow-up interview today he added: "Johnson wants a return of a Congress that will do exactly what he wants."

Ford was elected his party's House leader in January with the mission of improving the GOP's image and getting more Republicans elected to Congress next year.

Thursday Is the Day 'Sidewalk Sale' Will Feature Festival-Like Atmosphere

Finishing touches have been added and all appears in a state of readiness for Thursday's 4th annual Circleville "Sidewalk Sale."

The Thursday event will culminate several weeks of busy preparation on the part of Circleville merchants and Area Chamber of Commerce officials. A festival-like surrounding will predominate throughout the day.

As in the three previous years, the main attraction will center on the sales counters that will be set up at sidewalk level. And there will be a variety of entertainment to accent the day's shopping activity.

Merchants indicate there will be bargains galore displayed on the sidewalks — something for every member of the family. Clerks, decked out in special attire, will be on hand for shopper convenience.

IF PAST years are an indication, consumers will flock to the downtown area starting at an early hour. In fact, the sidewalk promotion is popularly termed the "little brother" of the fabulous Circleville Pumpkin Show.

Many stores will start moving their merchandise to the sidewalk area around 8 a. m. Heavy selling and colorful activity will continue well into the evening.

A delightful entertainment program has been carded by committee chairman Charles Boggs. Included are two youthful musical combos, the "Elegantes" and the "Unknowns." Both will perform in the afternoon.

On the early evening docket will be the "Davis Demons" Drum Corps, a renowned group of area drummers that performs with skill and precision.

Dominicans Still Split On Issues

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The rival factions in the Dominican Republic have agreed on a president for a provisional government but they haven't settled major issues dividing them.

These issues loom like a wide, turbulent river which must be crossed before the provisional government takes office. It might take three days or three months and Hector Garcia Godoy, the choice for president, might never get across.

Under an Organization of American States peace plan, the provisional government would serve until elections could be held in six to nine months.

Garcia Godoy is a 44-year-old lawyer, businessman and former diplomat from an old aristocratic Dominican family. The three-man OAS mediating presidency. After days of talks, the junta and the rebels reluctantly accepted him.

Each side seems to have yielded to pressure from thousands of Dominicans who are tired of the fighting and hardship.

Harriman's Role Studied

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. Ambassador-at-large W. Averell Harriman worked at the American Embassy today as speculation continued that his "vacation" visit here involves the Viet Nam situation.

An embassy spokesman said no appointments had been made yet for Harriman to see Soviet officials. Embassy sources said Monday when he arrived that he probably would see the top leaders.

Harriman denied at the airport that he came to negotiate, or that he brought any messages. But he said he was an old friend of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and would not object to discussing Viet Nam with him.

Harriman was U.S. ambassador in Moscow from 1943 to 1946.

Cincinnati Drowns Trying To Save Niece

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A 29-year-old Cincinnati man drowned Monday in a fishing lake at nearby Crescent Springs while vainly trying to rescue his niece.

Moody was teaching Judy Ann to drive when the car suddenly plunged into the lake.

President Sees 'Serious' Move For Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today that a new and serious decision may be needed on the Vietnamese war in the near future.

The President told a news conference that "increased aggression from the North (North Viet Nam) may require an increased American response on the ground in the south."

Johnson said U.S. forces will defend their own bases and "they will be available for more active combat," whenever U.S. field commanders decide it necessary.

"It is quite possible that new and serious decisions will be necessary in the near future," Johnson said.

The President volunteered these observations on the Vietnamese situation at the outset of his meeting with reporters.

He said Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. troops commander in South Viet Nam already has authority to use American forces in the ways that he considers most effective.

Johnson reported that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and ambassador-designate Henry Cabot Lodge will leave for Viet Nam Wednesday night. Their trip had previously been announced.

When they return, Johnson said, their recommendations will be carefully considered along with those of Westmoreland and retiring Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor.

McNamara and Lodge will concern themselves, the president said, with both the military and economic situations. Johnson said he got a report recently on that area from Eugene R. Black, former head of the World Bank.

Johnson left wide open the possibility that he may decide to call up military reservists and increase draft calls because of increasing demands for manpower in the Vietnamese conflict.

When he was asked whether he would take such actions, he said no decisions have been made and that "we will be in better position to act" on matters of that sort after the McNamara-Lodge survey trip.

In the Dominican Republic, Johnson went on, Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and his colleagues are continuing their efforts to find a peaceful and prompt solution to the problems there.

The President said that the Congress, the press and the people — "with very minor exceptions" — have strongly supported him since he has been in the White House.

"I know that there are some in each segment that have been disappointed in some of my decisions and some of my actions," (Continued on Page 2)

Bungling Thug Is Killed by Injured Man

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A lanky gunman with an embarrassed grin and quick trigger finger met death Monday after shooting two guards in a bungled attempt to rob the downtown Texas Bank & Trust Co.

The robber, identified by police Capt. Will Fritz as Cecil Francis Abbey, 38, of Eugene, Ore., was shot in the head after forcing his way to the door of the main vault in the basement.

Guards W. A. Johnson, 50, and George Cox, 64, both retired Dallas policemen, were in critical condition at Baylor Hospital. Each was shot twice in the chest.

Police said the would-be bandit, a former mental patient in Oregon, broke every rule for a successful bank robbery.

First he alerted everybody in the place by shooting a guard without apparent provocation. Then he ambled across the lobby and asked a group of employees: "Is everybody happy?"

After demanding to be taken to the vault, he passed through a series of locked doors that would have blocked escape. At the vault he shot the second guard, again without provocation, instead of disarming him and obtaining money.

Seemingly unfamiliar with the pistol he carried, he twice stopped to examine the weapon. The second stop gave the wounded Cox opportunity to pull his gun and shoot the bank robber in the head.

GOP Leader Claims LBJ Stifles Opposition Voice

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford said today that President Johnson is trying to "drown out" any views other than his own on domestic and foreign policy.

One reason for this, Ford contended, is politics. Ford at a news conference Monday accused Johnson of being "a dangerous advocate of one-party government."

In a follow-up interview today he added: "Johnson wants a return of a Congress that will do exactly what he wants."

Ford was elected his party's House leader in January with the mission of improving the GOP's image and getting more Republicans elected to Congress next year.

As in the 1964 election, civil rights are likely to be a big issue in 1966.

The big civil rights battle this session has been over voting rights. Ford and Rep. William L. McCulloch of Ohio, ranking Republican on the Judiciary Committee, offered a GOP bill as a rival to the administration's.

But Ford acknowledged that "Frankly, we had trouble getting the message across that our bill was as good or better than theirs."

After the GOP proposals were crushed and the administration's bill passed Friday night, Johnson issued a statement saying the Ford-McCulloch plan would have watered down the voting rights bill.

Ford said this tactic may have backfired because the Republicans in replying were able to share the White House lime-light and "get a better chance to sell our story than we did all last week."

At Monday's news conference, Ford and McCulloch accused Johnson of voting against civil rights in the Senate 100 per cent of the time until 1957.

They added: "The President embraces a form of consensus which in effect says 'I am right, everyone else is wrong. I am for good; you are for evil.' He tolerates no constructive differences of opinion. As such, he is a dangerous advocate of one-party government in this country."

Ford said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's sharp rebuke of Ford for urging the bombing of Hanoi missile sites was another effort to mute a Republican voice.

Ford said he had no doubt Mansfield's speech was instigated by the White House and was "an attempt to stop Republicans from giving Johnson anything but a blank check."

6 Countries Send Recruits to Ship

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — The skipper of the Navy destroyer Claude V. Ricketts believes she has shown the world that a ship can be run smoothly and efficiently with a crew of mixed nationalities.

"I thought before we sailed in February that mixed-manning was militarily feasible," said Cmdr. Thomas E. Fortson, "I am even more convinced today."

Fortson spoke as the Ricketts, with her crew of 300 recruited from six nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization returned to Norfolk Monday after a five-month tour of duty in the Mediterranean with the U.S. 6th Fleet.

The captain gave no details, but the obvious high spirits of his crew—American, West German, British, Dutch, Greek and Italian—indicated the absence of any problems of morale.

The Ricketts originally was envisaged as the forerunner of a multinational NATO force—an idea of the late President John F. Kennedy through which other NATO nations could share control of nuclear weapons.

This idea has been shelved, for the time being, at least. But both in her training period, when the crewmen had trouble understanding each other, and in her actual cruise, things went fine for the Ricketts.

If the mixed-manned crew conception didn't enthrall every NATO nation, it apparently aroused the curiosity of the Russians.

Fortson said that for five April days of her Mediterranean cruise — as she practiced gunnery, rescues and refueling — the Ricketts was followed by a Soviet guided missile destroyer.

"It got to be rather enjoyable having him around," Fortson said. "He had very good sea manners and didn't try to get in the way."

The boy didn't. His father did. The license, issued Monday by the Fayette County dog warden, lists the breed as "American Beagle," and the markings as "boy with bangs."

Scientists Prepare To Receive Mariner's TV Pictures of Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Jet Propulsion Laboratory scientists are set to receive Mariner 4 from a month-long sleep at 7:30 a. m. PDT Wednesday with a command to warm up its camera for history's first close-up pictures of Mars.

If all goes well, 21 pictures will be taken some 10 hours later as the U.S. spacecraft flies within 6,000 miles of the planet believed most likely to shelter extraterrestrial life. The first may be released late Thursday or Friday.

Mariner 4, launched Nov. 28, has been coasting along at up to a million miles a day, dozing since the last command of its electronic brain June 14 corrected its fix on the star Canopus, the star by which it is steering on the 325-million mile journey.

About 5:30 p. m. Wednesday Mariner 4 will start a 25-minute camera run from north to south across the face of Mars, starting with a bright, desert-like region called Elysium and a dark area, Trivium Charontis.

Some scientists believe the dark areas could be vegetation, fed by canals from white polar caps which appear to grow in winter and melt in summer. Trivium is especially interesting because it reflects radar waves strongly, like a mirror reflects light. Scientists say the radar brightness may indicate metallic surface material or perhaps a swamp.

After covering other deserts and dark areas — all linked by canal-like lines which some astronomers believe are evidence of intelligent beings — the camera should see the rough polar cap before the spacecraft curves around into the night side of Mars.

A laboratory spokesman gave this schedule of expected events:

At 7:30 a. m. Wednesday, a tracking station at Johannesburg, South Africa, tells a wide-angle light sensor on the space-he told a news conference. "I like to think that those who talk about them the most see us the least."

Johnson's comment was touched off by a reporter's observation that some writers have been openly critical of his relations with the press.

"I think there are very few presidents in the history of this country who have had more support of more publishers and more magazines than the present President," Johnson said. "I am proud of that."

The President said it is "an essential part" of the duty of newspapers and magazines to point up what they consider weaknesses in the administration.

Johnson said he isn't complaining about it.

In fact, he said, during some of the "most distressing" days of his time in the White House, his popularity rating "has gone up 6 per cent out in the country."

The President also said the Soviet Union had accepted a U.S. proposal to resume disarmament talks in a 17-nation conference at Geneva by July 27. He calls this encouraging. Of general relations with the Soviet Union—which have been hit by the Vietnamese war, the President said:

"We'd like to improve relations any way we can."

He also gave what appeared to be a deliberately casual endorsement to the present mission to Moscow of Ambassador-at-Large Averell Harriman. He said it was a personal trip and he had not sent Harriman but "I approve heartily" Harriman's meeting with any Soviet people who may wish to see him.

U.S. Employment Trend Starting Upward Climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's top economic experts are closely watching what they view as a dramatic reversal of a five-year drop in the nation's production employment.

"It struck us as very important," said one White House source.

His comment followed a Labor Department report that the number of workers engaged in the production of goods has risen by 820,000 in the past year, boosting total manufacturing jobs to a near record of more than 18 million.

In the previous five years, said Assistant Commissioner Harold Goldstein of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, goods-producing employment had been dropping an average of 100,000 annually.

White House experts have said little about the development so far, but after viewing what one source described as "six months of solid data" they may soon cite the figures as important new evidence of the strength of the economy.

Goldstein first called attention to the figures in a routine Labor Department briefing Monday.

The Labor Department previously had been emphasizing the rapid growth in service jobs — such as finance, insurance, trade, utilities and government — while employment in the production of goods was declining.

Government economists now see evidence of a healthier balance in the economy with the recent rise in production jobs along with the continuing rise in service employment — up 1.4 million the past year.

The White House source said the production figures indicated a new surge of confidence coupled with rising consumer income. They are part of "the same phenomenon," he said. It also reflects "a big step up in investments," he added.

In the late 1950s and early 1960s when production employment was declining, many consumers had less income and postponed purchases of big items like autos and appliances, he said.

In addition, he said the new surge of employment in the production of goods bucked an historic trend of a declining manufacturing labor force due to modern equipment that produces more with fewer workers.

Goldstein called it "a big recovery" that indicated a much stronger base for the entire economy than in several years. Last month's total of 18,068,000 manufacturing jobs was just short of the all-time high of 18,074,000 in November 1943, the peak of World War II production when industry was grinding out mountains of war materiel.

5 Marines Killed in Viet Battles

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Five U.S. Marines were killed and 17 wounded in two bloody engagements near the U.S. air base at Da Nang, a U.S. military spokesman reported today. He said 22 Viet Cong were killed in one action Monday, and unconfirmed reports said 26 guerillas died under Marine fire in the second.

In the biggest of the two Marine actions Monday, Leathernecks on a sweep operation only three miles southwest of Da Nang ran into a determined Viet Cong band.

The spokesman said two Marine F4 BPhantoms supported the foot soldiers as they pushed through rice paddies and hamlets where a Viet Cong force of about 200 had been reported earlier.

Communist marksmen killed four Marines and wounded 14 others in this fighting, the spokesman said. The Marine claim of 22 dead Viet Cong included six hit by rocket fire from the Phantoms, the spokesman reported.

In the second action, a Marine reconnaissance company sent to help an embattled government outpost 11 miles south of Da Nang was caught in a bloody firefight with a Viet Cong force of about one company.

The spokesman said one Marine was killed and three were wounded as the Leathernecks drove off the attackers. Vietnamese militiamen holding the outpost suffered no casualties.

In other ground action reported today, 23 Viet Cong were claimed killed during a fight with militiamen 220 miles northeast of Saigon in Phu Yen Province. Four government troops were killed and four wounded.

In Thua Thien Province, two Vietnamese army battalions and a militia force reported 19 Viet Cong killed in an operation that ended Monday. The fighting, 385 miles northeast of Saigon, was not far from Marine positions at the Phu Bai airport, near Hue.

American planes continued to hammer North Viet Nam and in the largest raid eight Air Force F105s dumped 21 tons of 750-pound bombs into part of the Son La army depot 125 miles west northwest of Hanoi.

Pilots reported 90 per cent destruction in the target zone, which apparently was only a portion of the depot.

Four F105 Thunderchiefs hit a ferry complex 70 miles west of Hanoi, cratering the eastern approach to the river ferry and destroying a wooden bridge, the pilots reported.

Spokesmen said two Navy A6 Intruders cratered approaches to two bridges 220 miles south of Hanoi.

Four Air Force F105s dropped a half million propaganda leaflets over Minh Binh, a major town 55 miles south of Hanoi, the spokesman said.

The landing of 2,900 men of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division in South Viet Nam has been delayed until Wednesday, military officials reported.

Captive Whale on 400-Mile Swim

PORT HARDY, B.C. (AP) — Namu the whale was off on another leg of his unwilling 400-mile swim to Seattle today.

Held in a cage of oil drums, nets, pipes and chains, the 22-foot killer whale is being towed from Namu, B.C., where it was trapped, to a waterfront aquarium in Seattle.

Four-ton Namu, the only one of his kind in captivity, is held in a pen 40 by 60 feet, towed by husky deep-water tugs and shepherded by Ted Griffin, owner of the Seattle sea-life showplace, on a little harbor tug.

Griffin bought Namu from two Canadian fishermen for $8,000. They caught the leviathan in their nets off the British Columbia coast several days ago.

Moving Namu south is a costly job. Griffin pays $100 for the 200 pounds of salmon the whale eats daily, and the voyage will last a week if all goes well, 10 to 12 days if not. Or it could fail if Namu breaks loose.

The cage was damaged by waves Sunday while being towed across Queen Charlotte Sound from the fishing village of Namu. Some of the steel framework buckled, and welds snapped.

At one point in Queen Charlotte Strait, as the sea-going procession neared Port Hardy, the 72-foot Canadian purse seiner doing the towing could only hold its own against the tidal current. The powerful vessel was held to a maximum speed of about three knots so Namu could swim along easily in the cage.

At Port Hardy the voyage south was about a fourth over. Between this town, on the northeast tip of the big Vancouver Island, and the city of Vancouver are more waters of the inland passage where the tides flow swiftly.

Seymour Narrows, with its high-speed currents which set up tremendous whirlpools, might be the area where Namu breaks free. But Griffin is confident the expedition will reach Seattle safely.

Five Choir Members All Set For Thrilling European Tour

Five youngsters from this community are members of the All-Ohio Youth Choir that will depart today on a tour that will take them to New York and the principal cities of Europe.

All prepared for the "trip of their life" are Larry Plum of Circleville and James and Joyce Davis, Sharon McPherson and Dan Conley of the Westfall School District. The choir will depart by plane this evening from Columbus and land in New York on the first leg of the journey.

Their first big thrill will come at New York where they will perform at the World's Fair. Then will come jaunts and performances in the great cities of Europe.

Traveling in two groups, the 120 choir members will leave New York on Thursday and land in Paris a few hours later. They will spend three days in this historical city and then depart for London.

ABOUT the next four days they will see the many sights of England, with quarters provided for them in London and Swansea. On July 23 they will move on to Amsterdam.

The next day it will be on to Hamburg. Berlin will be the destination on July 25. The visit in Germany will include trips to Frankfurt, Dusseldorf and Munich. This will be followed by stops in Switzerland, including a stay at Zurich.

On July 29, one group will arrive in Rome and the other group will land the next day. They will be in this vicinity until Aug. 1.

On Aug. 2 and 3, they will be in Madrid and Lisbon. The young performers are due back in New York City on Aug. 5.

The concert the choir will present in London will be hosted by the Duke of Devonshire who will represent the Royal Family.

Another highlight will be a performance in Wales. Glenville Thomas, director of the choir, is from Wales.

IN ADDITION to guiding the All-Ohio Choir, Thomas is the music director at Zanesville High School.

The choir will be back in Ohio on Aug. 6. From then on, members will concentrate on performances they will present at the State Fair.

Stock Prices Are Sluggish

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged off sluggishly early this afternoon as doubt overhung Wall Street about latest news developments.

The Street was awaiting news of President Johnson's news conference, expected to deal with U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

The market had a firm-to-higher opening, and trading ticked along at a brisk rate, but this stopped abruptly and the rate became even more sluggish than Monday's.

The best early prices were shaded but enough gainers remained to give the market a mixed appearance.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .82 at 877.14.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down .3 at 323.3 with industrials down .3, rails down .3 and utilities down .3.

5 Marines Killed in Viet Battles

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Five U.S. Marines were killed and 17 wounded in two bloody engagements near the key U.S. air base at Da Nang, a U.S. military spokesman reported today. In the biggest of the two Marine actions Monday, Leathernecks on a sweep operation only three miles southwest of Da Nang ran into a determined Viet Cong band.

The spokesman said two Marine F4 BPhantoms supported the foot soldiers as they pushed through rice paddies and hamlets where a Viet Cong force of about 200 had been reported earlier.

Communist marksmen killed four Marines and wounded 14 others in this fighting, the spokesman said. The Marine claim of 22 dead Viet Cong included six hit by rocket fire from the Phantoms, the spokesman reported.

In the second action, a Marine reconnaissance company sent to help an embattled government outpost 11 miles south of Da Nang was caught in a bloody firefight with a Viet Cong force of about one company.

The spokesman said one Marine was killed and three were wounded as the Leathernecks drove off the attackers. Vietnamese militiamen holding the outpost suffered no casualties.

In other ground action reported today, 23 Viet Cong were claimed killed during a fight with militiamen 220 miles northeast of Saigon in Phu Yen Province. Four government troops were killed and four wounded.

In Thua Thien Province, two Vietnamese army battalions and a militia force reported 19 Viet Cong killed in an operation that ended Monday. The fighting, 385 miles northeast of Saigon, was not far from Marine positions at the Phu Bai airport, near Hue.

American planes continued to hammer North Viet Nam and in the largest raid eight Air Force F105s dumped 21 tons of 750-pound bombs into part of the Son La army depot 125 miles west northwest of Hanoi.

Pilots reported 90 per cent destruction in the target zone, which apparently was only a portion of the depot.

Four F105 Thunderchiefs hit a ferry complex 70 miles west of Hanoi, cratering the eastern approach to the river ferry and destroying a wooden bridge, the pilots reported.

Spokesmen said two Navy A6 Intruders cratered approaches to two bridges 220 miles south of Hanoi.

Four Air Force F105s dropped a half million propaganda leaflets over Minh Binh, a major town 55 miles south of Hanoi, the spokesman said.

The landing of 2,900 men of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division in South Viet Nam has been delayed until Wednesday, military officials reported.

Tot Is Treated For Hand Injury

Also treated was Roger Hines, 5, Circleville, who cut his right foot on glass while playing.

Russell Teets, 37, Route 3, suffered contusions to his head after being struck with a ball at Ted Lewis Park.

All were released.

Captive Whale on 400-Mile Swim

PORT HARDY, B.C. (AP) — Namu the whale was off on another leg of his unwilling 400-mile swim to Seattle today.

Held in a cage of oil drums, nets, pipes and chains, the 22-foot killer whale is being towed from Namu, B.C., where it was trapped, to a waterfront aquarium in Seattle.

Four-ton Namu, the only one of his kind in captivity, is held in a pen 40 by 60 feet, towed by husky deep-water tugs and shepherded by Ted Griffin, owner of the Seattle sea-life showplace, on a little harbor tug.

Griffin bought Namu from two Canadian fishermen for $8,000. They caught the leviathan in their nets off the British Columbia coast several days ago.

Moving Namu south is a costly job. Griffin pays $100 for the 200 pounds of salmon the whale eats daily, and the voyage will last a week if all goes well, 10 to 12 days if not. Or it would fail if Namu breaks loose.

The cage was damaged by waves Sunday while being towed across Queen Charlotte Sound from the fishing village of Namu. Some of the steel framework buckled, and welds snapped.

At one point in Queen Charlotte Strait, as the sea-going procession neared Port Hardy, the 72-foot Canadian purse seiner doing the towing could only hold its own against the tidal current. The powerful vessel was held to a maximum speed of about three knots so Namu could swim along easily in the cage.

At Port Hardy the voyage south was about a fourth over. Between this town, on the north-east tip of the big Vancouver Island, and the city of Vancouver are more waters of the inland passage where the tides flow swiftly.

Seymour Narrows, with its high-speed currents which set up tremendous whirlpools, might be the area where Namu breaks free. But Griffin is confident the expedition will reach Seattle safely.

Five Choir Members All Set For Thrilling European Tour

Five youngsters from this community are members of the All-Ohio Youth Choir that will depart today on a tour that will take them to New York and the principal cities of Europe.

All prepared for the "trip of their life" are Larry Plum of Circleville and James and Joyce Davis, Sharon McPherson and Dan Conley of the Westfall School District. The choir will depart by plane this evening from Columbus and land in New York on the first leg of the journey.

Their first big thrill will come at New York where they will perform at the World's Fair. Then will come jaunts and performances in the great cities of Europe.

Traveling in two groups, the 120 choir members will leave New York on Thursday and land in Paris a few hours later. They will spend three days in this historical city and then depart for London.

ABOUT the next four days they will see the many sights of England, with quarters provided for them in London and Swansea. On July 23 they will move on to Amsterdam.

The next day it will be on to Hamburg. Berlin will be the destination on July 25. The visit in Germany will include trips to Frankfurt, Dusseldorf and Munich. This will be followed by stops in Switzerland, including a stay at Zurich.

On July 29, one group will arrive in Rome and the other group will land the next day. They will be in this vicinity until Aug. 1.

On Aug. 2 and 3, they will be in Madrid and Lisbon. The young performers are due back in New York City on Aug. 5.

The concert the choir will present in London will be hosted by the Duke of Devonshire who will represent the Royal Family.

Another highlight will be a performance in Wales. Glen-ville Thomas, director of the choir, is from Wales.

IN ADDITION to guiding the All-Ohio Choir, Thomas is the music director at Zanesville High School.

The choir will be back in Ohio on Aug. 6. From then on, members will concentrate on performances they will present at the State Fair.

U.S. Employment Trend Starting Upward Climb

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's top economic experts are closely watching what they view as a dramatic reversal of a five-year drop in the nation's production employment.

"It struck us as very important," said one White House source.

His comment followed a Labor Department report that the number of workers engaged in the production of goods has risen by 820,000 in the past year, boosting total manufacturing jobs to a near record of more than 18 million.

In the previous five years, said Assistant Commissioner Harold Goldstein of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, goods-producing employment had been dropping an average of 100,000 annually.

White House experts have said little about the development so far, but after viewing what one source described as "six months of solid data" they may soon cite the figures as important new evidence of the strength of the economy.

Goldstein first called attention to the figures in a routine Labor Department briefing Monday.

The Labor Department previously had been emphasizing the rapid growth in service jobs—such as finance, insurance, trade, utilities and government—while employment in the production of goods was declining.

Government economists now see evidence of a healthier balance in the economy with the recent rise in production jobs along with the continuing rise in service employment—up 1.4 million the past year.

The White House source said the production figures indicated a new surge of confidence coupled with rising consumer income. They are part of "the same phenomenon," he said. It also reflects "a big step up in investments," he added.

In the late 1950s and early 1960s when production employment was declining, many consumers had less income and postponed purchases of big items like autos and appliances, he said.

In addition, he said the new surge of employment in the production of goods bucked an historic trend of a declining manufacturing labor force due to modern equipment that produces more with fewer workers.

Goldstein called it "a big recovery" that indicated a much stronger base for the entire economy than in several years.

Last month's total of 18,068,000 manufacturing jobs was just short of the all-time high of 18,074,000 in November 1943, the peak of World War II production when industry was grinding out mountains of war materiel.

5 Marines Killed in Viet Battles

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Five U.S. Marines were killed and 17 wounded in two bloody engagements near the key U.S. air base at Da Nang, a U.S. military spokesman reported today. He said 22 Viet Cong were killed in one action Monday, and unconfirmed reports said 26 guerrillas died under Marine fire in the second.

Negotiation Is Out

The difficulties of the British Commonwealth's peace mission underline a fact about the Viet Nam conflict that many people overlook: How can you negotiate when one side won't even talk?

The peace mission was conceived by Great Britain but was backed by the whole commonwealth with its 750 million citizens. It proposed to visit leaders of all the nations involved in Viet Nam to see if some avenue could be found for a peaceful solution of the fighting there.

Both Peking and Hanoi denounced the mission as a U. S.-British fraud. And once again hope for negotiation to end the Vietnamese war evaporated. But this is what the world should have expected. The communist reaction followed a pattern that is plain.

From the start, the reds have shown no inclination to settle the Vietnamese dispute at the conference table. They turned down earlier peace feelers by Britain and other nations. They rejected President Johnson's offer of unconditional talks. The pause in bombing raids evoked nothing but invective.

Negotiation might be the sensible, civilized way to settle the Viet Nam question. And surely the American people would rather negotiate than fight, if negotiation could produce an honorable peace. But the fact remains, it takes two to negotiate.

It seems plain that the communists aren't interested in talking.

'Dogpatch Airline' Pinned Down

By Hal Boyle

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — It was one of the most ironical situations in a most ironical war.

"We felt pretty helpless," acknowledged Maj. George V. Moore, Jr., 43, McCook, Neb. "We were pinned down, and our burning planes seemed to be firing their missiles at us."

It happened during an enemy attack on the Da Nang base here, one of the 10 busiest in the world.

Three of the six U.S. aircraft destroyed or damaged in the postmidnight Viet Cong assault were F102 all-weather interceptor planes commanded by Moore.

These are 1,000-mile-an-hour planes kept on perpetual alert. They carry six Falcon air-to-air missiles and 12 Mighty Mouse rockets.

Their job is simple — to smash down the skies any enemy. To do this, they are required to get airborne in five minutes — and reach an altitude of 40,000 feet in 10 minutes.

In 11 months here the F102s traveled 1,375,000 miles in storm and sunshine, by day and by night — without finding an enemy plane to dare their strength.

The F102 flyers are on alert 24 hours, off 24 hours.

While on alert they are in an air-conditioned trailer only a few steps from their planes. It is called "Hell Boulevard" because every jet plane that roars off shakes the trailer and everything in it as if it were a leather cup full of dice.

The trailer has an entrance sign saying, "Dogpatch Airlines."

When the Viet Cong attacked at 1:30 a.m. recently, the first explosions blew Moore to the floor. He ran to the door, and now figures its jammed handle saved his life.

"As I bent over to jiggle it," he said, "a fragment burst through the window behind me and smashed through the door glass above me. If I had been straightened up —"

He and some 25 pilots and airmen, following their emergency orders, raced to two small sand-bagged shelters while U.S. Marines and U.S. Air Force security troops moved in.

For 2½ hours Moore and his men had to stay in the stooped and uncomfortable quarters while exploding ammo and rockets lit up the night.

"The worst thing," mourned the major, "was that some of the missiles we had been saving for so long to fire on enemy seemed to explode and come toward us."

Moore, a chunky, dark-eye-browed man, is typical of the veteran U.S. Air Force pilots here. Their long experience has given them an arid sense of humor through which shines their perennial dedication. After 17 years of service — he left in 1945 and was called back in 1951 — during which he has flown 11 bomber aircraft, he still is ruled by the simple philosophy of a soldier — an eagerness to close with the enemy.

So many of the veterans over here are like that.

They don't look like fighters, because they aren't flamboyant. But they are fighters.

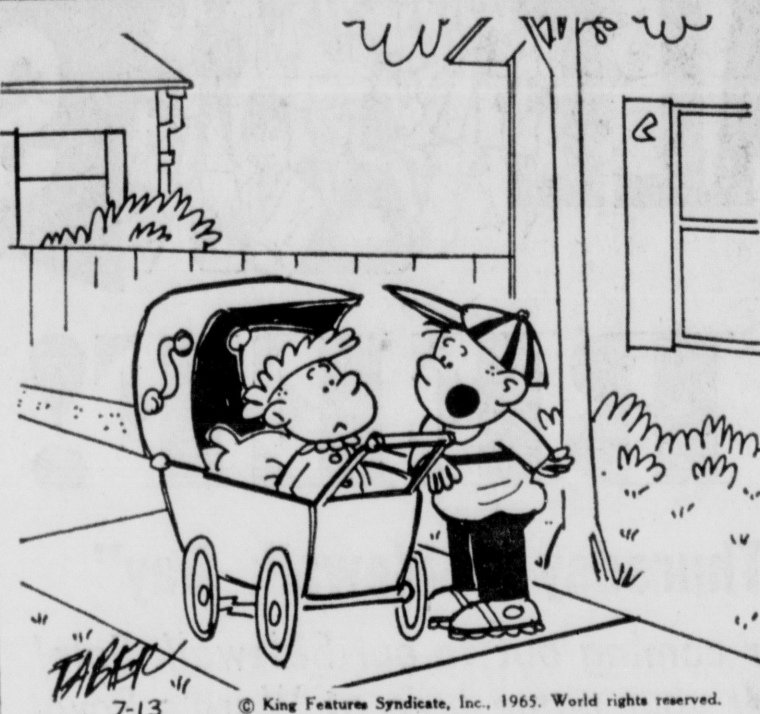

"That scramble from our trailer to the bunkers when the ground enemy hit us was the fastest we ever made," he said. "We call ourselves the Royal Order of the Sand Crawlers. We got a few bruises and scratched foreheads, but —"

At dawn, within 4½ hours, the squadron had replacement planes from the Philippines, and was ready to rove the skies again.

"Our pilots aren't frustrated because they haven't been able to engage the enemy. They look for him all the time, but he hasn't shown up," Moore said.

"Every damn one of them aches for the enemy. They all fight to squeeze in on every mission."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

FRED ALLEN's letters, collected in book form by Joe McCarthy, establish him once and for all as one of America's all-time greats in the humor department. From a New England seashore resort he wrote, "Things are so tough up here that people who have been living on the cuff are moving further up the sleeve for the summer."

From a New Jersey farm: "The mosquitoes in these parts are enormous. One stung a Greyhound bus the other night and it swelled up so badly they couldn't get it through the Lincoln Tunnel."

To bird-lover John Kieran, Allen noted, "We have none of your bird activities around our 58th Street apartment, but there is one old slate-colored junco who flies around occasionally. This junco is owned by a real estate operator who builds houses rather hurriedly. When one of the slate-colored shingles blows off the junco flies up and covers the hole in the roof until the real estate operator collects the first payment on the house."

Housewives' Rebellion?

By John Chamberlain

President Lyndon Johnson is particularly worried about opposition to his Vietnam policy. With the "peace" picketers after him from one direction, and the speed-up-the-escalation joys chivvying him from the other side, the President naturally hasn't had much time to spend on lesser problems. But if he is not careful, he's going to find himself smack in the middle of a housewives' rebellion over the cost of food, which is up fifteen per cent over a year ago.

The note of feminine rebellion was sounded the other day by Representative Charlotte Reid, an Illinois Republican, who spoke as "a homemaker as well as a member of Congress."

"We have been hearing a lot lately about the war on poverty," she said. Then she added, "I believe that war has already been lost in the nation's grocery stores."

Representative Reid's words were part of a movement sparked by the Republican Congressional Committee to lay the groundwork for what it thinks may be a tremendous issue by the time the harvest season is here. The fact is that Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz's policy of excluding foreign agricultural workers has already made some food shortages a certainty. Senator George Murphy of California, Senator Spessard Holland of Florida and Senator John Tower of Texas have all complained bitterly about what the lack of good harvesting hands has been doing to crops in their states. But they represent the producers' point of view, which is a narrow one when it comes to votes. Representative Charlotte Reid speaks for the consumers of groceries, an interest group that is as large as the nation itself.

The issue of high grocery store prices is bound to become particularly acute in the Autumn unless Secretary of Labor Wirtz can either produce a miracle or summon up the intellectual courage to reverse his policy of excluding Mexican and other foreign harvesting hands from this country. Wirtz's hope that high school athletes — his so-called "A-team" workers — would bail him out on the farms of America has already been made to look ineffectual. A number of A-teams were made available to the cantaloupe growers around Blythe on the California side of the Colorado River.

After a break-in period at $1.40 cents an hour the members of these A-teams agreed to work at piece-work rates on top of a guarantee of a $1.25 an hour minimum. But the A-team athletes soon found they couldn't even earn the minimum in the 100-degree heat. The few experienced Mexican workers who were available to the cantaloupe growers were averaged

NEW YORK (AP) — The search for a new way to settle international trade transactions will be a long and probably stormy one. Involved are conflicting national goals and also strong personalities, such as President Johnson and French President Charles de Gaulle.

The United States now says it's willing to set out on the path — but only with due caution, and it still doesn't like de Gaulle's ideas.

Since World War II the international financial system has been based on reserves of U.S. dollars and gold, plus the sometimes shaky British pound sterling. A nation whose imports were exceeding its exports could use any of the three to settle its accounts — if it could get them.

The United States says it is now ready to join others who have been claiming that in the future this base won't be enough, or at least not the best possible one. Until Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler over the weekend proposed a conference to effect a change, the official American view was that the danger of a breakdown in the international monetary system was remote.

But the clash over how the nations outside the Iron Curtain can best do the job is still loud and sometimes violent.

The United States wants to protect the value of the U.S. dollar. And President Johnson holds that its value depends more on the continuing strength of the U.S. economy than on its reserve of gold that has been draining away.

De Gaulle wants international monetary settlements to be based more on gold and less on the dollar — and wants the French franc to play a bigger role. He has been underlining his belief by turning in his surplus dollars for gold from the U.S. Treasury. His views are far from popular on this side of the Atlantic.

The British want to bolster the pound against repeated speculative attacks and the periodic threats of further devaluation. Allied with them are the nations in the pound sterling block — largely members of the British Commonwealth and former members of the British Empire.

The steadily growing number of independent but underdeveloped nations are primarily interested in easier credit and getting more dollars or pounds or gold — or whatever international currency may be dreamed up — to finance their great backlogs of needs or ambitions.

What all concerned seem to be agreed upon today, after several years of debate, is that at the rate that world trade is expanding, the international monetary system must be reformed again — and expanded.

The last change was during World War II, the Bretton Woods, N.H., conference in 1944 which set up the International Monetary Fund to police world currencies and ease strains.

If the dollar, gold and the pound aren't to be the bases for international currency transactions, what will be?

Fowler didn't spell this out or commit the United States. De Gaulle's idea of returning to gold seems likely to win little support. Expansion of the International Monetary Fund's powers and of the credit-dispensing facilities of the World Bank has been suggested. Some advocate setting up a new international currency backed by the leading financial nations.

Most seem to believe it will be two or three years before any decision can be reached. And by then much could change. The U.S. economic situation, for one. The Common Market's financial situation, for another. Even the urgency of the demands of the underdeveloped nations.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Heat stroke, heat exhaustion and heat cramps are to totally different conditions. Each must be recognized and treated in its own way.

Heat cramps are the least serious of this "heat threesome" due to prolonged overexposure to heat. Cramps in the legs and abdomen with faintness and dizziness are caused by rapid loss of salt during periods of excess sweating.

People exposed to heat in factories and near furnaces drink large quantities of fluid and further reduce the salt content of their bodies.

Treatment consists of taking salt tablets to replenish the loss of this important body chemical. The salt comes in 10 grain tablets, and is coated to prevent nausea.

These should be taken at least four times a day by those who perspire excessively, especially by workers in industrial plants and active sportsmen.

Heat exhaustion occurs more frequently in women and almost resembles a typical fainting spell. The person exposed to oppressive heat may feel weak, dizzy and faint. The heart may begin to pound and the skin color becomes pale and clammy to the touch.

Heat exhaustion is more frightening than it is serious, both to the observer and to the victims.

Treatment consists of making the victim comfortable. Loosen the clothing, apply cold compresses to the face and back of the neck, keep the victim lying down with the feet elevated somewhat higher than the head.

When the skin pallor disappears a cool, sweet drink (never alcohol) will make the victim more comfortable. Reassurance is an important ingredient in the treatment of heat exhaustion.

Heat stroke is a more serious condition and one that needs professional direction and advice.

Heat stroke or sunstroke is accompanied by high fever. Usually the skin surface is hot and reddened, unlike the pallor of heat exhaustion.

Heat stroke demands vigorous treatment. The victim should be placed in a cool tub until the body temperature is reduced. Then the patient should be wrapped in blankets, towels or sheets that have been immersed in cold water.

Fans and air conditioning can help in reducing the fever which is the prime aim in treating heat stroke. Cool iced drinks (never, never alcohol) in small repeated sips is helpful in lowering the fever.

Heat stroke is a relatively serious condition when it occurs in the elderly or in those who have chronic heart, kidney or lung conditions.

Exposure to heat can be compared to an actual body injury.

Better than treatment itself is prevention. In most instances, people can avoid undue exposure to heat.

People who travel in tropical and subtropical lands should follow the habits of the natives who protect themselves against overexposure to heat with long midday siestas. Farm workers in more temperate climates have learned that the midday sun is only for mad dogs.

Heat exhaustion is more frightening than it is serious, both to the observer and to the victims.

Treatment consists of making the victim comfortable. Loosen the clothing, apply cold compresses to the face and back of the neck, keep the victim lying down with the feet elevated somewhat higher than the head.

When the skin pallor disappears a cool, sweet drink (never alcohol) will make the victim more comfortable. Reassurance is an important ingredient in the treatment of heat exhaustion.

Heat stroke is a more serious condition and one that needs professional direction and advice.

Heat stroke or sunstroke is accompanied by high fever. Usually the skin surface is hot and reddened, unlike the pallor of heat exhaustion.

Heat stroke demands vigorous treatment. The victim should be placed in a cool tub until the body temperature is reduced. Then the patient should be wrapped in blankets, towels or sheets that have been immersed in cold water.

Fans and air conditioning can help in reducing the fever which is the prime aim in treating heat stroke. Cool iced drinks (never, never alcohol) in small repeated sips is helpful

Housewives' Rebellion?

By John Chamberlain

President Lyndon Johnson is particularly worried about opposition to his Vietnam policy. With the "peace" picketers after him from one direction, and the speed-up-of-escalation boys chivvying him from the other side, the President naturally hasn't had much time to spend on lesser problems. But if he is not careful, he's going to find himself smack in the middle of a housewives' rebellion over the cost of food, which is up fifteen per cent over a year ago.

The note of feminine rebellion was sounded the other day by Representative Charlotte Reid, an Illinois Republican, who spoke as "a homemaker as well as a member of Congress." "We have been hearing a lot lately about the war on poverty," she said. Then she added, "I believe that war has already been lost in the nation's grocery stores."

Representative Reid's words were part of a movement sparked by the Republican Congressional Committee to lay the groundwork for what it thinks may be a tremendous issue by the time the harvest season is here. The fact is that Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz's policy of excluding foreign agricultural workers has already made some food shortages a certainty. Senator George Murphy of California, Senator Spessard Holland of Florida and Senator John Tower of Texas have all complained bitterly about what the lack of good harvesting hands has been doing to crops in their states. But they represent the producers' point of view, which is a narrow one when it comes to votes. Representative Charlotte Reid speaks for the consumers of groceries, an interest group that is as large as the nation itself.

The issue of high grocery store prices is bound to become particularly acute in the Autumn unless Secretary of Labor Wirtz can either produce a miracle or summon up the intellectual courage to reverse his policy of excluding Mexican and other foreign harvesting hands from this country. Wirtz's hope that high school athletes — his so-called "A-team" workers — would bail him out on the farms of America has already been made to look ineffectual. A number of A-teams were made available to the cantaloupe growers around Blythe on the California side of the Colorado River.

After a break-in period at $1.40 cents an hour the members of these A-teams agreed to work at piece-work rates on top of a guarantee of a $1.25 an hour minimum. But the A-team athletes soon found they couldn't even earn the minimum in the 100-degree heat. The few experienced Mexican workers who were available to the cantaloupe growers were averaging more than $4 an hour in piece — rates, or $38 a day. The picking costs for the cantaloupe growers, which were 40 cents a crate last year, have been considerably more than doubled by the effort to train and use high school athletes in place of Mexican braceros. One particular grower sent a crew of experienced braceros through his field in the wake of an A-team. The Mexicans found that some 25 to 30 crates an acre, amounting to about a fourth of the crop, had been left unpicked.

If this sort of thing goes on in Michigan, where cucumber pickles must be harvested, and in California tomato fields, and in the onion fields, the pinch on the housewives' food budgets is bound to be felt all across the United States. Ronald Reagan, who hopes to get the Republican nod as 1966 candidate for governor of California, is already making the California food situation an issue. Speaking of Secretary of Labor Wirtz's promises of an effective domestic labor supply to California farmers, Mr. Reagan said the other day that "Wirtz has turned out to be something less than a Jolly Green Giant."

At the other end of the continent a Republican Congressional Committee Task Force on Agriculture has already gone into the subject of the increasing scarcity of vegetables. And plans are afoot to have the House Republican Planning and Research Committee carry it from there. Lyndon had better take over some of Lady Bird's ordering if he wants to know what may be in store for him.

So many male film stars are plunging into politics and announcing they'll seek office, come next November television viewers won't be able to tell whether they are watching the late, late movie or the election returns.

Deaf Man Perfects Midget Transistor Hearing Aid

If you can hear people talk and can't make out the words clearly, then this will be your answer. An extremely small hearing aid using a tiny energized unit, has been perfected by a man who himself is hard of hearing and has been for over 10 years. EXIRA, Iowa (AP) — Twenty-six years of congressional memories are crammed into the small white frame cabin behind the home of former Rep. Ben Jensen, R-Iowa.

They begin and end with two pair of shoes once worn by the southwest Iowa congressman, now 72.

One pair, which has been gilded, bears the signs of a hard campaign. The shoes are labeled, "The winners, 1938."

"I was poor as a rat. I didn't even have them soled. I just put cardboard in them every day," said Jensen, in reference to the campaign which first sent him to Congress.

The second pair of shoes, less worn, has a sign proclaiming them, "The losers," 1964.

"I didn't talk enough," Jensen said. "I didn't get out."

Jensen, defeated last fall in his bid for a 14th consecutive term in the House, has retired to the house in Exira—population 1,100—which has been home for more than 40 years to him and his wife, Charlotte.

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — With the jaunty slogan "North to the Future" as a guideline, Alaskans are busily preparing for their biggest blowout since statehood.

On Oct. 18, 1967, Alaska will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its purchase by the United States from Russia, a 586,400-square-mile real estate purchase for $7.2 million. It was derisively called "Seward's Folly," after the man who engineered it, Secretary of State William H. Seward.

The Centennial celebration will begin Jan. 3, 1967 — eight years to the day from the date Alaska became the 49th state of the Union.

LEIGHTON, Ky. (AP) — W. T. Kirby has spent 30 years trying to make the grass look greener on the other side of the fence.

Kirby, 63, who builds, mends and paints fences around horse farms, believes they "make the pastures look greener. There is nothing much prettier than a horse farm with those white fences."

But it's a big job. One of his contract customers, Calumet Farm, has about 45 miles of fence. It takes about two months to paint it.

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Thirty prisoners at the Maryland Correctional Institution for Males have formed a Civil War round table. Currently, they are studying the "underground railroad."

Inmates receive no special privileges as members. They may study during their free time in the evenings. Each contributes 50 cents a month from his prison pay for books and supplies.

The leader of the group is Norman Igo, 20, serving a term for auto larceny and false pretense.

Igo said membership is limited to 30 to make for better discussion, and there is a long waiting list.

"GREAT TRAIN ROBBER" Ronald A. Biggs (above) got free of London's Wandsworth Prison in an escape planned as carefully as the "Great Train Robbery" of 1963, in which he and a gang robbed a Glasgow-to-London express of more than $7 million, a world record. Biggs, 35, was serving a 30-year sentence. He and three others went over the wall on rope ladders during a fight staged by other prisoners.

Drat That Car!

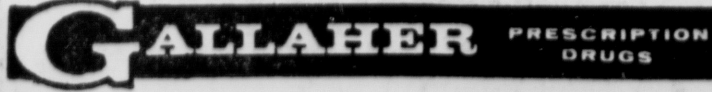

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A local minister recently returned a used car to the dealer who sold it to him.

"What's wrong?" the dealer asked. "Can't you run it?"

"Not and stay in the ministry," the preacher replied.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Cat and Dog Fight Shunned

DEAR ABBY: I love cats and have a large Persian cat which is almost human. A friend recently said she thought cats were a feeble excuse for pets—that dogs were superior in all ways. (She has a dog.) She said that he who chooses a cat for a pet does so because his personality and character are similar to a cat's (secretive, arrogant and cruel!). Further more, she claims that cats are the only creatures who kill for the sheer fun of killing. They'll kill birds for sport, not because they are hungry. Is this true? I think cats are more sincere than dogs, are cleaner and are a better judge of character. A dog will make friends with anyone who pets or feeds him. Not a cat. If a cat senses that a person can't be trusted, it will walk around him with its hair standing on end. Whose opinion is correct? Mine or hers?

CAT FANCIER
DEAR CAT FANCIER: Animal psychologists who have "psycho-animalized" both dogs and cats have revealed that each has its individual personality, mentality and behavior pattern. Some cats are cleaner, more intelligent, intuitive, and discriminating than some dogs. And vice versa. But every pet lover stubbornly clings to the belief that his pet is superior to all others. And I'll be dog-gone if I'm going to get mixed up in a cat and dog fight. People are my specialty, and your "friend" bears all the markings of the cattiest feline.

DEAR ABBY: I have read in your column often that when two people are "in love" age doesn't matter. How wrong that is. When I married my wife, 16 years ago, I thought as you did. I was 24, and the girl I fell in love with was in her early 40's, but she looked and acted 25. The gap was minor then. But now it has put us in different worlds. We still "love" each other (in a way), but it's not the kind of love that husband and wife should have. And we both realize it, but I wouldn't be unfaithful to her for the world. Everything went well the first few years. Then one day I looked at her and realized that the beautiful and exciting "girl" I had married had become an old woman, while I was still in my late 30's. My advice to people who say that "age doesn't matter" is—wait. It does.

DEAR "EXISTING": Maybe so, but all the "advice" in the world is useless against love and a toothache.

DEAR ABBY: When a person is an overnight guest in the home of a friend, should he make his own bed in the morning or not?

WAITING TO HEAR
DEAR WAITING: If your hostess has "help" in the house, it is not necessary to make up your own bed. If she has no "help"—make it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO
"SWINGING GOLFER AT THUNDERBIRD": Golfers who like to swing will frequently remove their wedding rings. They claim it improves their swing.

Bon Voyage Party Given For Student

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Caldwell of near Lockbourne were present for an all day outing and pool party Sunday at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Renner, Zanesville.

This was a bon voyage party for Lynn Hawley, the Caldwell's granddaughter, a sophomore at Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., who will sail July 29 for Le Havre, France. She will be enrolled in the French branch of Vanderbilt University near Marseilles, for six months of study and travel, returning in February, 1966.

This will be her second trip abroad. The first was when she and her cousin, Susan Caldwell, Chillicothe, accompanied Mrs. Caldwell to Europe in 1960, visiting six countries. Susan Caldwell is now living in West Vancouver, B. C. Canada.

Condition of Girl 4, Is Listed as Critical

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP) — A 4-year-old girl accidentally shot while visiting her grandparents was reported in critical condition at Massillon City Hospital Monday night.

The girl, Robin Henry, was shot Sunday at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Horvath Jr. A gun discharged after falling from a chair, sheriff's deputies said.

SHE'S A QUEEN—Linda Hale, 17, Boyne City, Mich., is this year's "National Cherry Queen" at the annual Cherry Festival in Traverse City.

Chicken pieces, coated with seasoned flour may be ovenfried in a shallow pan in a hot oven. Use a quarter-pound of butter for one chicken. Bake skin-side down for half an hour, then turn and continue baking for another 30 minutes.

Avocado mashed with lemon juice and seasonings makes a delicious dip for corn chips. For a little color, add a diced seeded tomato to the avocado mixture.

Prepare a pie from a package of chocolate pudding mix and a baked 8-inch pastry shell. Cover the top copiously with flaked coconut and garnish with orange sections.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Cat and Dog Fight Shunned

DEAR ABBY: I love cats and have a large Persian cat which is almost human. A friend recently said she thought cats were a feeble excuse for pets—that dogs were superior in all ways. (She has a dog.) She said that he who chooses a cat for a pet does so because his personality and character are similar to a cat's (secretive, arrogant and cruel!). Furthermore, she claims that cats are the only creatures who kill for the sheer fun of killing. They'll kill birds for sport, not because they are hungry. Is this true? I think cats are more sincere than dogs, are cleaner and are a better judge of character. A dog will make friends with anyone who pets or feeds him. Not a cat. If a cat senses that a person can't be trusted, it will walk around him with its hair standing on end. Whose opinion is correct? Mine or hers?

CAT FANCIER
DEAR CAT FANCIER: Animal psychologists who have "psycho-animalized" both dogs and cats have revealed that each has its individual personality, mentality and behavior pattern. Some cats are cleaner, more intelligent, intuitive, and discriminating than some dogs. And vice versa. But every pet lover stubbornly clings to the belief that his pet is superior to all others. And I'll be dog-gone if I'm going to get mixed up in a cat and dog fight. People are my specialty, and your "friend" bears all the markings of the catfiest feline.

DEAR ABBY: I have read in your column often that when two people are "in love" age doesn't matter. How wrong that is. When I married my wife, 16 years ago, I thought as you did. I was 24, and the girl I fell in love with was in her early 40's, but she looked and acted 25. The gap was minor then. But now it has put us in different worlds. We still "love" each other (in a way), but it's not the kind of love that husband and wife should have. And we both realize it, but I wouldn't be unfaithful to her for the world. Everything went well the first few years. Then one day I looked at her and realized that the beautiful and exciting "girl" I had married had become an old woman, while I was still in my late 30's. My advice to people who say that "age doesn't matter" is—wait. It does.

DEAR "EXISTING": Maybe so. But all the "advice" in the world is useless against love and a toothache.

DEAR ABBY: When a person is an overnight guest in the home of a friend, should he make his own bed in the morning or not?

WAITING TO HEAR
DEAR WAITING: If your hostess has "help" in the house, it is not necessary to make up your own bed. If she has no "help"—make it.

Baseball Wife 23 Years Still Doesn't Know Game

CINCINNATI (AP) — Attractive Dorothy Sisler has been a baseball wife for 23 years but still insists, "I don't know too much about the game."

She admits she suffers with the trials and tribulations of her husband's team.

Hubby is Dick Sisler, first-year manager of the Cincinnati Reds. Last year, Sisler took over as acting manager when Fred Hutchinson had to quit because of what turned out to be a fatal cancer and came within one game of bringing the Reds home in first place.

This year he has had his team at or near the top all season.

Mrs. Sisler, a native of Asheville, N.C., met Dick when he was playing for Asheville's team in the old Piedmont League. They met through a mutual friend, and most of their early dates were at a swimming pool.

"I didn't know anything about baseball, and I still don't know too much," she said in an interview after coming here from their home in Nashville, Tenn., to join her husband for the summer months.

Within months after their 1942 marriage, Dick went into the Navy for a hitch that lasted until December, 1945.

That was when Mrs. Sisler says she began to learn a little about baseball.

For about a year they lived with Dick's parents in St. Louis. Dick's father, of course, is George Sisler, a member of baseball's Hall of Fame.

"With Dick's father and his brothers all the conversation was baseball," she said, "and from there, I just picked up what I know from here and on."

About that "suffering", Mrs. Sisler says:

"When Dick was a player, I suffered about him getting a hit. When he was a coach, I suffered about the player he was working with and with him managing, I suffer about the whole team."

What with three daughters—Sharon Lee, 18; Kathleen Ann, 14, and Patricia Barton, 12—and a son, Dick Jr., 2—Mrs. Sisler says she doesn't go to ball games as often as she might like. And when she goes, she doesn't keep a scorecard.

"I don't think I'd know how," she explained, "and besides I like to eat so I eat popcorn and hot dogs and drink cokes."

Fashions Jeered Year Ago Are Accepted This Season

NEW YORK (AP) — Women's fashions often start out as a laughing matter and wind up with the whole family taking them seriously, and wearing them, too.

The evidence to support this theory was presented Monday by pretty girls, handsome men, and cute children who tripped across the stepping stones in the lily pond of a famous restaurant wearing a variety of such fashions in textiles by Burlington Mills.

In the audience were more than 250 fashion writers here for the New York Couture Group's fall style previews.

Take those zany-patterned stockings for women which men hooted at last year. This year the Argyles are even gaudier. But men are not laughing. They are wearing the same kinds of socks with their golf knickers again. The same leg art in diminutive size is for the small fry.

Take top art. Everybody is—including men in geometric sportswear and toddlers in dots and dashes.

Take the Andre Courreges look. Paris did, after snickering at the Frenchman who made baby-doll clothes — boots, bon-nets, and high-waisted, high-hem dresses — for grown-up ladies. The American woman has bought it—even as lingerie.

Those bold-black stripes on his short-welt-seamed white dresses from the winter collection criss-crossed white petticoats in the same fashion at Monday's show. Another model wore a striped suspender jumper. All peered through Courreges-style opaque sunglasses — exaggerated to the size of saucers.

Then the babies walked cautiously across the stepping stones in mite-sized versions of the Courreges baby-doll dresses for big girls.

Reds Complain Free Press Scooping Them

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party complains that Western news media are beating Soviet organs to the punch on world developments and scoring propaganda advantages here.

The party's chief theoretical organ Kommunist said it was vital for Soviet propaganda outlets to provide speedy and comprehensive "elucidation" of news events from the Soviet viewpoint.

If you have one of those very small spiral beaters, you'll find it is a great help mixing water with flour or cornstarch so the combination is smooth. A beater of this sort fits into a cup.

Man's Best Helper

MIDDLESBORO, Ky. (AP)—Walter Hoe Jr. and his dog, Buster, worked out a solution to the telephone lineman's problem.

Hoe wanted a telephone line run from one end of the house to the other but he wanted it kept out of sight.

Since Hoe had no basement, the lineman decided to extend the line through the narrow crawl space under the house. The lineman, however, was too big to get into the space.

Hoe then tied one end of the wire to Buster's collar. He went around to the other end of the crawlway and whistled for the dog, who came running—pulling the line behind him.

Job Offers Lure Information Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carl T. Rowan said Monday the combination of "an anemic bank account" and tempting outside offers nudged him away from government service.
"It's simply the fact that I have been in government more than four years, and have had job offers that present remarkable opportunities," he said in an interview.
"I've got two boys headed for college," he said, then quipped: "And a hungry Doberman Pinscher."
President Johnson announced Rowan's resignation as director of the U.S. Information Agency over the weekend. Rowan, 39, one of the highest ranking Negroes in government service, said he would remain at his post until a successor is named.

Dem Liberals Need Fresh Needle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Study Group, the liberal Democrats' special organization in the House, may be in the odd position of needing just a bit of party adversity to keep it honed up to what it considers full effectiveness.
Grown from a little band of self-named marauders in 1957, the group—DSG for short—now enrolls a majority of the Democrats in the House. It won its spurs inching out victories over the old coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. Now it sees President Johnson's legislative proposals sailing serenely through a House where the administration party, since last November's election, has a better than 2-1 edge.
The chairman of the study group, Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. of New Jersey, says it is as much needed as ever, and keeps proving its worth convincingly, if not spectacularly.
"If we weren't providing the hard core of votes, those margins wouldn't be so impressive," Thompson said in an interview, "and look at the vote on the Housing and Urban Development Department—we went all out on that and we needed to."
The proposal for the new Cabinet department won 217-184 in the House — much closer than some other major administration measures.
The last Congress had twice denied President John F. Kennedy's request for similar legislation.
For Southerners, it had a racial issue, because Kennedy announced in advance he intended to name a Negro, Robert C. Weaver, to head it. Weaver, then and now head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, is still considered in the running to become the first Negro in the Cabinet.
When Thompson spoke of going all out for a bill, he meant among other things using to the full DSG's chain-telephone system. Its operators contend that a message, usually "Get to the floor, we need your vote," can be relayed to all 165 DSG members in three minutes.
The liberal wing of the Democratic party used to lose votes because the more determined strength count.

A group of Northern and Western Democrats, worried about the success of the coalition, formed the forerunner of DSG in 1957. Lee Metcalf of Montana, who subsequently moved to the Senate, was one of the main organizers and the band was for a time known as "Metcalf's Marauders."

Two years later the organization set itself up formally and adopted the study group name, partly because it conducts legislative studies, but largely because it wanted a low-key designation to discourage any belief it was out to challenge the regular party leadership.

COUNTY GRANGE

The annual summer picnic for Pickaway County Grange was held Sunday at Tar Hollow Park.

The youth group with Harold Furniss, Pomona chairman and David Shepherd, president, was in charge of arrangements for the eight subordinate branches.

For the candidates for Prince and Princess, John Dowler, deputy master, administered an examination concerning the structure and procedures of Grange — the rural - urban fraternal family organization. Carol DeLong was declared Princess with Patricia Schleich alternate, and Pat Dawson the Prince with Lee Kern alternate.

These Royal representatives will compete for state recognition at the State Grange in Toledo.

Job Offers Lure Information Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carl T. Rowan said Monday the combination of "an anemic bank account" and tempting outside offers nudged him away from government service.

"It's simply the fact that I have been in government more than four years, and have had job offers that present remarkable opportunities," he said in an interview.

"I've got two boys headed for college," he said, then quipped: "And a hungry Doberman Pinscher."

President Johnson announced Rowan's resignation as director of the U.S. Information Agency over the weekend. Rowan, 39, one of the highest ranking Negroes in government service, said he would remain at his post until a successor is named.

Dem Liberals Need Fresh Needle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Study Group, the liberal Democrats' special organization in the House, may be in the odd position of needing just a bit of party adversity to keep it honed up to what it considers full effectiveness.

Grown from a little band of self-named marauders in 1957, the group—DSG for short—now enrolls a majority of the Democrats in the House. It won its spurs inching out victories over the old coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats. Now it sees President Johnson's legislative proposals sailing serenely through a House where the administration party, since last November's election, has a better than 2-1 edge.

Widow Seeks Identity of Late Mate

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Mark Roth, 22, is trying to get some answers to a very personal mystery: Who was Mark Roth, the man who met her two years ago, married her, and who died May 15 of a heart attack.

She has been able to trace Roth, a man who "seemed to have secrets," back as far as 1962, when he owned a grocery store in Cincinnati. Beyond that there is no trace of him, she says.

"I really want to know who he was and if he was running, why he was, Bonnie (her 5-month-old daughter) will want to know about her father someday too."

Roth had told his wife he was born in Philadelphia, but no record can be found there of a

Cleric Leads 7-Bicycle Caravan on Journey

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Rev. Theodore Pelikan and his family, forming a seven-bicycle caravan, pedaled 392 miles here from Chicago on a vacation trip in a week.

The family is visiting Mrs. Pelikan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Prok, in suburban Lakewood.

The Rev. Mr. Pelikan, 40, is pastor of Trinity Lutheran church in Lincolnwood, Ill. With him were his wife, Betty, 36, and their children, Ted, 13, Anne, 12, Lynne, 11, Ruth, 9 and Sylvia, 8.

Mark Roth. He said he was 42 and that a long scar across his chest and back was received while he was in the service.

But efforts to trace Roth through the Veterans Administration proved fruitless, Mrs. Roth said.

She is also concerned about his past for Social Security reasons. Since Roth's Social Security card is only three years old, she does not qualify for benefits. A worker must pay into social security for a minimum of five years for his widow to be eligible for benefits. Mrs. Roth thinks her husband must have held a card under another name at some time.

Solo Sailor Tells His Boss He May Be Late for Work

CLEVELAND (AP) — From far out on the Atlantic Ocean, amateur sailor Robert Manry has sent his boss a note explaining that he may not get back to work by 5 p.m. Aug. 29, as he had promised. It's taking longer than expected to sail 3,000 miles to England in his 13½-foot boat, Tinkerbelle.

The first letters from the 48-year-old Manry, a newspaper copy editor when he's on dry land, arrived Monday, providing some vivid details of what it's like on the lonely ocean in one of the tiniest craft ever to attempt a crossing.

Like being awakened one morning by the U. S. submarine Trench, honking its horn along-side.

"They wanted to know if I needed any help, and I said no, thank you. Then it rumbled off."

Billy the Kid's Feats

Due To Be Re-enacted

LINCOLN, N.M. (AP) — Residents of Lincoln County, an old stamping ground for Billy the Kid, again will re-enact the famous outlaw's escape from jail here before he was shot by Sheriff Pat Garrett. The annual pageant, "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid," is scheduled for Aug. 7-8.

Manry remarked in a letter to his wife, Virginia.

The next day he was awakened by a Canadian Navy cruiser, only "the Canadians were more genteel. They didn't honk. They just sort of eased up and let their presence be known."

"The officer said 'good morning' to me as I climbed out of the hatch, as though it was the most natural thing in the world to be awakened by a cruiser of the Canadian Navy."

Manry said he had run into a couple of gales, but also had experienced "some really glorious sailing."

The letters, dated June 13, were picked up by a steamship captain July 5 at a point about one-third of the way across the Atlantic. Manry left Falmouth, Mass., June 1, bound for Falmouth, England, carrying provisions for 90 days in the cabin of the tiny sailboat.

He sent letters to his wife and two children in nearby Willock and to his boss, Philip W. Porter, executive editor of the Plain Dealer.

Another U.S. Helicopter Division Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is studying whether one more division should be converted into a helicopter-borne outfit designed for swift thrusts, particularly in a country like South Viet Nam.

The study is under way less than a month after Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara authorized the formation of the first such division, called "airmobile."

The 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) came into being formally on July 1 at Ft. Benning, Ga. No final decision has been made on whether to send it to South Viet Nam later on, sources said.

The airmobile division is made up of about 15,800 men. It has both regular infantry and paratrooper brigades.

After being carried close to the combat zone by Air Force transports, the airmobile soldiers would mount up in their 428 helicopters and ride to the battle.

The Army is due to come in with its recommendations involving a possible second airmobile division in time for drafting the next defense budget late this year.

It is not known yet whether another infantry division or one of the two wholly paratrooper divisions would be converted.

The Army now has 16 divisions. In addition to the new 1st Cavalry Division Airmobile and the two airborne outfits, they break down into eight infantry divisions, one mechanized infantry division and four armored divisions.

The Defense Department has said the airmobile division was adopted "because of its special capabilities which are not found in the other divisions."

The airmobile unit, the Pentagon said, "will make its greatest contribution to improved combat effectiveness in operations where terrain obstacles and underdeveloped communications networks could give enemy guerrillas or light infantry forces an advantage over our standard formations."

craft to search for Mars. This signal will take 12 minutes to reach Mariner 4 across 134 million miles of space. Confirmation that the search has begun is expected to reach earth at 7:54 a.m.

If the earth command fails to get through, an automatic timer on the spacecraft will start the search at 8:41 a.m.

About 3:15 p.m., a signal will tell Mariner 4's radio to stop sending engineering data on instrument performance and get ready to send picture signals.

By 4:50 p.m. the wide-angle sensor should have found Mars and positioned the camera at the proper angle.

At 5:20 p.m. a narrow-angle sensor focuses on Mars and starts a roll of tape on which the pictures will be recorded, much as television shows are recorded on tape. Each picture will consist of 200 lines of 200 dots of varying shades of gray.

If the camera does not start on time automatically, a signal sent at 5:13 p.m. will start it at 5:25 p.m.

In either case the camera will operate for 25 minutes.

A picture will be formed on the television tube in one-fifth of a second, every 48 seconds. Readout of this image onto tape will take 24 seconds and erase the image in preparation for the next will require another 24 seconds.

The pictures will be taken with four alternating filters, two blue-green and two orange-red, to emphasize the swamp-like and desert-like areas.

Up to 21 pictures are expected if the camera starts at 5:20 p.m. If the camera starts at 5:25 p.m. there will be time for only 15 or 16 before Mariner 4 swings behind Mars, where it will be too dark for pictures.

Closest approach, 5,400 miles, will come at 6:03 p.m. but on the surface below it will be nighttime.

At 7:12 p.m. the spacecraft will disappear behind the planet, then reappear on the other side at 8:05 p.m.

One minute before disappearance and one minute after reappearance its radio signals will be measured closely to determine the density and depth of Mars' atmosphere. Scientists figure to weaken the signal the thicker the atmosphere.

For the next 9 hours and 35 minutes the spacecraft will send engineering data.

Playback of the picture tape will start automatically at 5:40 a.m., with the first signals being received at Johannesburg at 5:52 a.m.

Transmission of each picture will take eight hours and 35 minutes. Each of the 40,000 dots in a picture is made up of six bits of data. To avoid confusion over the extreme distance, the data will be sent slowly, at a rate of 8.13 bits per second instead of the 10,700 bits per second rate at which the pictures were recorded.

Reception of the first picture is expected to be complete about 2:30 p.m. After two more hours of engineering data, transmission of the second picture will begin.

If 21 pictures are sent, the last should be in the hands of earth scientists July 24.

Collie Dog in Kennel Adopts Orphan Fawn

CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP) — An orphaned fawn has found a new home and mother at the Rebel Springs Kennels.

The fawn was adopted by Teresa, a collie, and it now competes for dinner with Teresa's five puppies and a Chihuahua puppy Teresa adopted. Kennel owner Jack Webb said the fawn appeared at the kennel in a weakened condition when it was four or five days old.

Banned Photo Brings Trial For Newsman

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — An Alliance newsman goes on trial Sept. 2 on a charge of failing to obey an officer who had ordered him not to take pictures at the scene of an accident.

The newsman, Richard Babb, 22, of radio station WFAH, was arrested Saturday by a Portage County deputy sheriff near the scene of an accident in which three persons were killed.

The charge accused him of "taking pictures although gasoline was on the ground."

Officers apparently thought the flash attachment on Babb's camera might trigger an explosion.

Object in Night Sky Has Agencies Baffled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An unidentified object — or objects — spotted Monday in the sky had thousands of persons and numerous agencies in at least four states baffled.

The general consensus was that the object seen over much of Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland was a large weather balloon. But if it was, no one was able to find out where it came from.

The Federal Aviation Agency, which generally is informed on such matters, said it had no reports of any weather balloons being launched Monday except once in Tyler, Tex. A spokesman said, however, that the Tyler balloon was launched only a short time before the first unidentified object report was made in Ohio Monday morning.

Late Monday night, the FAA at Columbus said to disregard its earlier information that the object was a weather balloon. It would not comment further.

A spokesman at Lockbourne Air Force Base, near Columbus, said the object spotted in the Midwestern states was a satellite. He too declined further comment.

Next Beetle Invasion

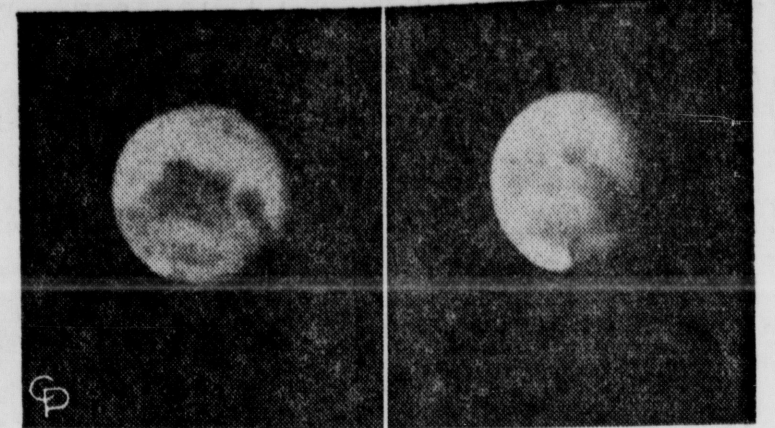

NEW YORK (AP) — The next United States tour by the Beatles will be from Aug. 13 through Sept. 1.

The Beatles will perform in New York, Toronto, Atlanta, Houston, Chicago, Minneapolis, Portland, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

A report that the object "definitely" was the planet Venus came from Friend Kierstead, orbit analyst for the Ancon-Canton Satellite Tracking Group, which traces satellites for the government. Kierstead said the planet had become visible after moving within close range of the sun.

There was speculation by the FAA and research officials at Ohio State University, however, that the object spotted in Akron may not have been the same one seen in other areas.

Lockbourne sent up a jet plane to get a closer look at the object, reported by several sources to have been hovering at about 60,000 to 80,000 feet. The pilot reported that he was no closer to the object at 31,000 feet—the highest he went—than when he was on the ground.

New Minimum Standard To Bring Consolidations

Another U.S. Helicopter Division Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army is studying whether one more division should be converted into a helicopter-borne outfit designed for swift thrusts, particularly in a country like South Viet Nam.

The study is under way less than a month after Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara authorized the formation of the first such division, called "airmobile."

The 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) came into being formally on July 1 at Ft. Benning, Ga. No final decision has been made on whether to send it to South Viet Nam later on, sources said.

The airmobile division is made up of about 15,800 men. It has both regular infantry and paratrooper brigades.

After being carried close to the combat zone by Air Force transports, the airmobile soldiers would mount up in their 428 helicopters and ride to the battle.

The Army is due to come in with its recommendations involving a possible second airmobile division in time for drafting the next defense budget late this year.

It is not known yet whether another infantry division or one of the two wholly paratrooper divisions would be converted.

The Army now has 16 divisions. In addition to the new 1st Cavalry Division Airmobile and the two airborne outfits, they break down into eight infantry divisions, one mechanized infantry division and four armored divisions.

The airmobile unit, the Pentagon said, "will make its greatest contribution to improved combat effectiveness in operations where terrain obstacles and underdeveloped communications networks could give enemy guerrillas or light infantry forces an advantage over our standard formations."

adopts new minimum standards proposed Monday.

The standards, most startling of which would raise the minimum size of a three-year high school from 240 to 400 students, were drafted by an advisory committee and recommended for approval by State Supt. of Public Instruction E. E. Holt.

Four year high schools would have a minimum of 500 students.

Schools with fewer than 500 students could continue to be chartered—a requirement to get state aid—if they met all the other standards. The other standards also would work against a small school, however.

High schools, for example, would be required to offer at least 45 courses, instead of the present minimum of 20.

The new standards also would require students to have one more credit for graduation.

About 550 Ohio public high schools now fall below the proposed 500-pupil minimum.

The standards also would toughen the requirements for junior high schools to get charters, raising the time required for instruction in languages, social studies and mathematics.

The board set a public hearing on the revisions for Oct. 12. It was not specified how soon after that action on the new standards might come.

The board at its meeting Monday also set a public hearing for Sept. 14 on a new proposal for centralized purchase of school buses and approved a new money formula for vocational education.

The centralized bus purchase plan is the second attempt of the board to get the procedure adopted. It was approved once but the courts struck it down because it did not have legislative backing.

Since then, the legislature has included a provision in the school statutes allowing for such purchases.

The board also approved construction bids of $648,968 for the Jefferson Local School District, Montgomery County, and gave Alliance city, Tuscarawas Valley and Orrville City school districts authority to submit bond issues to the voters.

Alliance's bond issue is in the amount of $3,740,000 and Orrville city's $1,200,000. Tuscarawas Valley's will be for $554,000.

Limited Sunday Liquor Sale Getting Nod

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Bills to permit restricted Sunday liquor sales and to increase state support for public schools by $100 million have cleared legislative hurdles in a big push to wind up the long session.

In a surprise move, the House Liquor Control Committee voted Monday night to recommend passage of the controversial liquor measure which already has been passed by the Senate.

After a series of House amendments, the measure would permit Sunday sales after 1 p.m. in counties of 200,000 or more population, subject to approval at local option elections.

Sponsors said they were surprised at the committee vote which means this will be the first time in history for any similar proposal to reach the floor of both houses. Legislators from metropolitan areas have pressed for the legislation, asserting it would be a boon in the state's bid for more convention business.

House Education subcommittee members worked late into the night on the school foundation bill, regarded as the biggest obstacle to adjournment of the session which began Jan. 3.

The program described by subcommittee members calls for $100 million for education in the next two years, boosting the total for the biennium to $625 million.

So-called flat grant district would receive a $300 increase per unit to $2,400. Additional aid districts would get boosts ranging from $356 to $500.

Remaining in the program was an administration plan to give teachers $200-a-year pay increases. Districts also would receive $24 a year per teacher to cover increased retirement contributions.

In other developments, the Senate decided to postpone until today a bill to grant pay raises to 39,000 state employees. Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, said Democrats requested the added time to prepare amendments.

Sponsors of a bill to require competitive bidding by county commissioners on purchases of $1,000 or more, defeated Monday night in the House, said an effort may be made to have it reconsidered.

In other business Monday night, the House voted to grant state subsidies to counties or groups of counties for juvenile rehabilitation purposes. An allocation of $5 million for the program was included in the $290 million bond issue approved by voters in the May 4 primary.

The lower chamber completed legislative action on a proposal clarifying the right of school teachers to use corporal punishment and defend themselves from physical attack by students.

Rep. Ralph B. Kohnen, R-Hamilton, was among backers who said under present law, teachers have virtually no legal recourse in actions stemming from classroom incidents.

Other House-passed bills would permit Blue Cross programs to contract with facilities for skilled nursing care, set procedures for determination of a prisoner's constitutional rights after his conviction, and call for inspection of automobiles last registered in other states prior to issuance of an Ohio title.

The Senate voted 27-2 to hike the maximum pay of county judges from $5,000 to $5,500 a year. That bill now goes to the House.

Red China Army Has Misfits, Too

By F. K. WU
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HONG KONG — Red China's numerically powerful army is weighed down with its quota of Sad Sacks and Beetle Baileys despite Peking's threats to send troops to aid North Viet Nam in the event of American soldiers stepping into that country.

The presence of such misfits and incapables in the armed forces accounts for the continued exhortations from Marshal Lin Piao, minister of national defense, down to the newest shavetail urging all ranks to be alert, well-trained and prepared for the supreme sacrifice at any time.

These exhortations are known in Communist jargon as "Three-Eight Style," "Four-Good Company," and "Five-Good Fighter" and found expression in slogans plastered right and left in mess halls, commune headquarters and even latrines as recently seen by many Hong Kong visitors now back from Red China.

While these travelers saw very few soldiers in Communist China, it is believed here that the morale of the People's Liberation Army, the mainstay of Peking's might, is not high as indicated in the untiring efforts of Marshal Lin Piao, a veteran of the Korean War, to urge his officers and enlisted men to study the books by Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and obey his concepts.

Mao Tse-tung's works ranging from guerrilla warfare to his conceptions of Communism and Marxism are driven into the minds of soldiers and all Communists as a kind of panacea and tonic.

Defense Minister Lin Piao has been completely snowed under with his indoctrination campaign and was seen in public only once in several years at a Shanghai opera house in mid-March. The marshal has been such a diligent student and busy distributor of his master's works that he has not been in good health for many years, although it is persistently reported he was wounded in Korea by an American air raid in 1951.

In any event, he has to put his divisions in combat readiness for battlefields in Viet Nam, Thailand, India and elsewhere, because Mao Tse-tung as early as 1936 said "we will lead the Chinese revolution to its completion and also exert a far reaching influence on the revolution in the East as well as in the whole world . . . and we can say that the whole world can be remolded only with the gun."

However, observers here are pretty unanimous that the Peking regime will not openly dispatch an expeditionary force into Viet Nam in the same manner as in Korea in 1950. They pointed out that it was Premier Joseph Stalin of Soviet Russia who obliged Peking to march its "volunteers" into Korea on the pretext of better defense of the rich resources of Manchuria and that Red China was afterward required to reimburse Moscow for the supply of arms, ammunition and other provisions.

These observers said that the Peking payments for war supplies to the U.S.S.R. constituted one of the chief causes of the split between the two countries, for Red China thought that its sacrifice of a million casualties in Korea was enough as its share of the war cost and expected the Kremlin to foot the logistics bill.

On the other hand, well-informed sources said that Peking has already taken part in the Viet Cong activities in a clandestine and round about way through the skillful staff plans mapped out by Marshal Yeh Chien-ying at his headquarters in Kunming in south-west China.

Chinese newspapers in Hong Kong reported the marshal was in Hanoi late last year to confer with President Ho Chi Minh on how to deliver smashing blows on American advisers and South Vietnamese troops, but these newspapers were unable to give any details.

Marshal Yeh Chien-ying served under (Nationalist) General Chang Fa-kuei in South China in 1927 as a group army chief of staff. Now living here in retirement, General Chang told this correspondent that Yeh was a good operations officer and knows very well about conditions in the Kwangsi-Yunnan-Viet Nam border areas.

Informed sources said that Peking's aid to North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong consists of staff officers, instructors, arms and ammunition and that there are several regiments of Chinese Communist soldiers now in Kwangsi Province ready to move into North Viet Nam to swell the rank and file of Ho Chi Minh's army and not as "volunteers", Korea style.

Pair Sought in Holdup in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland police have issued a nationwide alert for two men accused of a $45,000 savings association holdup last Friday. A third man charged with the robbery is in custody.

Authorities believe the two still at large fled the city. The FBI has been asked to join in the manhunt.

Charged with bank robbery Monday were Arthur Mack, 31, now in jail; and his alleged accomplices, Charles E. Sparks, 42, and Edward O. Watkins, 46. All are Clevelanders.

Three gunmen robbed a Cuyahoga Savings Association office Friday and fled with what was originally reported at $30,000. An audit at the East Side branch revealed the higher figure.

Mack was arrested early Saturday for a traffic violation.

Police said they found $900 of the loot in the car that Mack had paid $500 for after the holdup.

A wide variety of objects has served mankind as money. Shells, beads, cattle, and other domestic animals have been commonly used throughout the world. More unusual items include huge stones, pig tusks, and woodpecker scalps.

Limited Sunday Liquor Sale Getting Nod

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Bills to permit restricted Sunday liquor sales and to increase state support for public schools by $100 million have cleared legislative hurdles in a big push to wind up the long session.

In a surprise move, the House Liquor Control Committee voted Monday night to recommend passage of the controversial liquor measure which already has been passed by the Senate.

After a series of House amendments, the measure would permit Sunday sales after 1 p.m. in counties of 200,000 or more population, subject to approval at local option elections.

Sponsors said they were surprised at the committee vote which means this will be the first time in history for any similar proposal to reach the floor of both houses. Legislators from metropolitan areas have pressed for the legislation, asserting it would be a boon to the state's bid for more convention business.

House Education subcommittee members worked late into the night on the school foundation bill, regarded as the biggest obstacle to adjournment of the session which began Jan. 3.

The program described by subcommittee members calls for $100 million for education in the next two years, boosting the total for the biennium to $625 million.

So-called flat grant district would receive a $300 increase per unit to $2,400. Additional aid districts would get boosts ranging from $356 to $500.

Remaining in the program was an administration plan to give teachers $200-a-year pay increases. Districts also would receive $24 a year per teacher to cover increased retirement contributions.

In other developments, the Senate decided to postpone until today a bill to grant pay raises to 39,000 state employees. Senate Majority Leader Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, said Democrats requested the added time to prepare amendments.

Sponsors of a bill to require competitive bidding by county commissioners on purchases of $1,000 or more, defeated Monday night in the House, said an effort may be made to have it reconsidered.

In other business Monday night, the House voted to grant state subsidies to counties or groups of counties for juvenile rehabilitation purposes. An allocation of $5 million for the program was included in the $290 million bond issue approved by voters in the May 4 primary.

The lower chamber completed legislative action on a proposal clarifying the right of school teachers to use corporal punishment and defend themselves from physical attack by students.

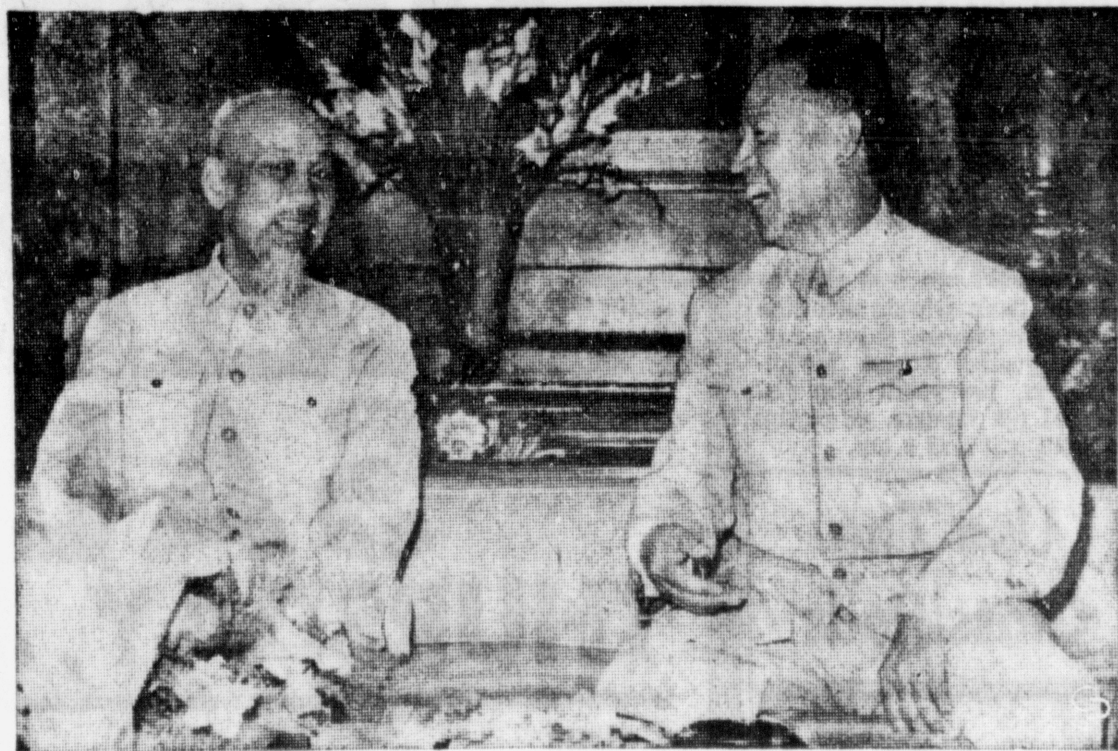

Rep. Ralph B. Kohnen, R-Hamilton, was among backers who said under present law, teachers have virtually no legal recourse in actions stemming from classroom incidents.

Other House-passed bills would permit Blue Cross programs to contract with facilities for skilled nursing care, set procedures for determination of a prisoners' constitutional rights after his conviction, and call for inspection of automobiles last registered in other states prior to issuance of an Ohio title.

The Senate voted 27-2 to hike the maximum pay of county judges from $5,000 to $5,500 a year. That bill now goes to the House.

Red China Army Has Misfits, Too

By F. K. WU
Central Press Association
Correspondent

HONG KONG — Red China's numerically powerful army is weighed down with its quota of Sad Sacks and Beetle Baileys despite Peking's threats to send troops to aid North Viet Nam in the event of American soldiers stepping into that country.

The presence of such misfits and incapables in the armed forces accounts for the continued exhortations from Marshal Lin Piao, minister of national defense, down to the newest shavetail urging all ranks to be alert, well-trained and prepared for the supreme sacrifice at any time.

These exhortations are known in Communist jargon as "Three-Eight Style," "Four - Good Company," and "Five - Good Fighter" and found expression in slogans plastered right and left in mess halls, commune headquarters and even latrines as recently seen by many Hong Kong visitors now back from Red China.

While these travelers saw very few soldiers in Communist China, it is believed here that the morale of the People's Liberation Army, the mainstay of Peking's might, is not high as indicated in the untiring efforts of Marshal Lin Piao, a veteran of the Korean War, to urge his officers and enlisted men to study the books by Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and obey his concepts.

Mao Tse-tung's works ranging from guerrilla warfare to his conceptions of Communism and Marxism are driven into the minds of soldiers and all Communists as a kind of panacea and tonic.

Defense Minister Lin Piao has been completely snowed under with his indoctrination campaign and was seen in public only once in several years at a Shanghai opera house in mid-March. The marshal has been such a diligent student and busy distributor of his master's works that he has not been in good health for many years, although it is persistently reported he was wounded in Korea by an American air raid in 1951.

In any event, he has to put his divisions in combat readiness for battlefields in Viet Nam, Thailand, India and elsewhere, because Mao Tse-tung as early as 1936 said "we will lead the Chinese revolution to its completion and also exert a far reaching influence on the revolution in the East as well as in the whole world . . . and we can say that the whole world can be remolded only with the gun."

However, observers here are pretty unanimous that the Peking regime will not openly dispatch an expeditionary force into Viet Nam in the same manner as in Korea in 1950. They pointed out that it was Premier Joseph Stalin of Soviet Russia who obliged Peking to march its "volunteers" into Korea on the pretext of better defense of the rich resources of Manchuria and that Red China was afterward required to reimburse Moscow for the supply of arms, ammunition and other provisions.

These observers said that the Peking payments for war supplies to the U.S.S.R. constituted one of the chief causes of the split between the two countries, for Red China thought that its sacrifice of a million casualties in Korea was enough as its share of the war cost and expected the Kremlin to foot the logistics bill.

On the other hand, well-informed sources said that Peking has already taken part in the Viet Cong activities in a clandestine and round about way through the skillful staff plans mapped out by Marshal Yeh Chien-ying at his headquarters in Kunming in southwest China.

Chinese newspapers in Hong Kong reported the marshal was in Hanoi late last year to confer with President Ho Chi Minh on how to deliver smashing blows on American advisers and South Vietnamese troops, but these newspapers were unable to give any details.

Marshal Yeh Chien-ying served under (Nationalist) General Chang Fa - kuei in South China in 1927 as a group army chief of staff. Now living here in retirement, General Chang told this correspondent that Yeh was a good operations officer and knows very well about conditions in the Kwangsi-Yunnan-Viet Nam border areas.

Informed sources said that Peking's aid to North Viet Nam and the Viet Cong consists of staff officers, instructors, arms and ammunition and that there are several regiments of Chinese Communist soldiers now in Kwangsi Province ready to move into North Viet Nam to swell the rank and file of Ho Chi Minh's army and not as "volunteers", Korea style.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Thomas H. Pippin, 32, Cincinnati, has been sentenced to life imprisonment for the second degree murder of Miss Virginia Lewis, 28, Cincinnati.

Pippin was allowed to plead guilty to the charge Monday. He had originally been indicted on a charge of first degree murder in the May 9 slaying.

Worthington Tour Slated

Worthington's tenth Tour of Homes, sponsored by the Worthington Historical Society, will be held from noon to 5 p. m. on July 25.

Four of the seven houses on the tour represent life of the early to middle 19th century. One is a fine country home of the Victorian period. Two, located in the Medick Estates section of Worthington, are modern.

In addition to the homes, visitors may see an outdoor art show, exhibits in local store windows and several public buildings of historical interest.

Tickets may be purchased the day of the tour at the Historical Museum.

Proceeds will be used to continue the work of restoring the Orange Johnson House which will become the first completely restored home of an early settler in Franklin County to be open to the public.

Pair Sought in Holdup in Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland police have issued a nationwide alert for two men accused of a $45,000 savings association holdup last Friday. A third man charged with the robbery is in custody.

Authorities believe the two still at large fled the city. The FBI has been asked to join in the manhunt.

Charged with bank robbery Monday were Arthur Mack, 31,

now in jail; and his alleged accomplices, Charles E. Sparks, 42, and Edward O. Watkins, 46. All are Clevelanders.

Three gunmen robbed a Cuyahoga Savings Association office Friday and fled with what was originally reported at $30,000. An audit at the East Side branch revealed the higher figure.

Mack was arrested early Saturday for a traffic violation.

Police said they found $900 of the loot in the car that Mack had paid $500 for after the holdup.

A wide variety of objects has served mankind as money. Shells, beads, cattle, and other domestic animals have been commonly used throughout the world. More unusual items include huge stones, pig tusks, and woodpecker scalps.

"WEAPONS" IN "GASOLINE WAR"—Janet Gosling (left) and Wendy Thornley were hired by this gas station in London to try to attract customers during a "gasoline war."

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans haven't come up with any fresh issues since the voters overwhelmingly repudiated them and their ideas in the 1964 elections.

It's a subdued party which makes it the strangest sight in a generation — at least in Congress where last year it won only 140 House seats to 295 for the Democrats and only 32 places in the Senate to 68 for the Democrats.

In March Leonard Hall, former chairman of the GOP's National Committee, said the party "is in bad shape." Republicans have said very little since to make them sound more optimistic than Hall.

Last month the new chairman, Ray Bliss, very modestly said "we honestly believe we can make gains," which is a far cry from the forecast of his predecessor, Dean Burch, who predicted Republican victory in 1964.

But Bliss said that if the Republicans are going to make gains in the 1966 congressional elections they will have to pick outstanding candidates and campaign vigorously.

Yet, they don't even agree among themselves on what stand Republicans should take in Congress or what the issues are or might be.

Last March one of the most powerful House Republicans, Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, said "we may be dangerously close to ending any support" for President Johnson's policy in Viet Nam.

But the most powerful Republican in the Senate, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, disagreed, saying Senate Republicans will continue to "uphold the hands of the President" in Viet Nam.

Laird, who perhaps comes closest to being Johnson's most constant critic among House Republicans, but pretty infrequently at that, denounced the Johnson administration for "seeking one-party government" and the subjugation of Congress.

As a result of the massive Republican defeat in 1964, he said, "it cannot be lost on the American people that we have come to the dangerous brink of one-party government."

About three months later the Republicans' House leader, Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, echoed Laird, saying he believes the two-party system is in jeopardy.

Ford said that when the President presents his legislative proposals "the Democrats in Congress don't know whether to click their heels or clap their hands."

But the day after making this gloomy forecast he was saying victory is in the air for the Republican party, which means the opposite of jeopardy for the two-party system.

He said there were "sounds of unrest signaling the awakening of the American electorate."

Last week Ford and Laird, after failing to get a Republican substitute through the House, along with 110 other Republicans joined 221 Democrats in approving the Johnson administration's bill to protect Negroes' voting rights.

Only 24 Republicans voted against it, along with 61 Democrats.

In the Senate 13 Republicans teamed up with 55 Democrats to push through Johnson's measure to provide medical care for people 65 or over. Fourteen Republicans and seven Democrats voted against.

Ford last month laid down as one of the rules for Republican victories in 1966 support for the present administration when it is right, opposition to it when it is wrong.

But on specifics neither Ford nor the rest of the Republicans are clear. Ford said he had supported the views of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and his policies and "I hope we can follow those general guidelines."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Ohioans were among 16 men identified by the Defense Department Monday as killed by the Communists in South Viet Nam.

They were Spec. 4 Robert D. Stepanov, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stepanov of Akron, and Pfc. James A. Hall, son of Albert Hall of Cleveland.

Gunshot Wound Fatal to Girl, 12

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Vickie Kelley, 12, Rt. 2 Salem, died Monday in North Side Hospital from a gunshot wound in the neck. The girl was wounded June 11 in a camping accident at Berlin Reservoir, south of here.

Police said she was shot as she and three friends unloaded camping equipment from a car. Police quoted Robert McCullough, 19, the youth who discharged the weapon, as saying he thought it was a toy.

News of World in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, which first passed a federal minimum wage law in 1938, is now getting around to giving its restaurant employees the current minimum — $1.25 an hour.

The Senate is taking the step through the committee process. The House is moving faster: Speaker John W. McCormack has passed the word. There are 410 waiters, servers, bus boys and the like employed in the restaurants, cafeterias and snack bars on the two sides of the Capitol and the adjacent office buildings. Of these, 200 are paid less than the federal minimum, with hourly salaries from $1.01 to $1.24.

Actually this is entirely legal. Cafeteria employees are not covered by federal minimum wage law. So this action by Congress to look after its own help is entirely voluntary.

Donald is the only child of Mrs. Rose DiLiberto; Michael one of five children of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Moughan.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief of the Federal Children's Bureau has estimated that 24 states and territories are spending $1.75 million this year for family planning services, including birth control.

Detectives said they had two teams trying to locate Donald DiLiberto, 6, and Michael Moughan, 4. Police planned to show pictures of the youngsters on television in hopes someone would recognize the boys and provide a clue.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bills to allow the legislatures of Guam and the Virgin Islands to determine and pay their members' salaries and allowances have been approved by the House.

A report accompanying the bills said this will recognize that the legislatures of these U.S. possessions are responsible. Enactment of the bill, which now goes to the Senate, "will thus be an expression of faith in local democratic processes...and another step toward the ultimate achievement of full territorial home rule," it said.

PARIS (AP) — The French Atomic Energy Commission says France has begun making a more efficient atomic bomb for use as a warhead for missiles.

A report Monday night said researchers concentrated last year on developing a warhead for ground-to-ground missiles designed to serve as the intermediary between atomic bombs carried by Mirage IV jet fighter-bombers and the Polaris-type missiles planned for French submarines.

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian government will use radio broadcasts, movies and mobile teams to explain a new birth control device to thousands of women. But it is also counting on village gossip to spread the word.

The foundation said a special report noted that there was no sign of any pesticides other than DDT.

DDT was first released for civilian use in 1945, the foundation said, and has since found its way throughout the world.

21 Unknowns Trying Out With Browns

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns have 21 free agents in their training camp, and Coach Blanton Collier is busy checking out each unknown player carefully.

"I suppose people think I'm crazy to have all these free agents out here," Collier said Monday at the Browns' first practice session in Hiram. "I figure you have to do it, though."

"Most of these fellows are recommended by a coach or scout. Some simply sold themselves to us. You just can't take the chance of overlooking a good one."

National Football League figures show Collier isn't the only coach interested in free agents. Twenty-one of them won regular spots with league clubs last season.

Baltimore quarterback Johnny Unitas is probably the best example of what a free agent might turn out to be. He was signed as a free agent in 1956 after starring on the sandlots in Pittsburgh.

Current Browns signed as free agents are defensive halfback Larry Benz, defensive back Walter Beach and veteran linebacker Vince Costello.

Druggists, Elks Win Tilts in Little League

Bingman Drugs remained in the top spot of the Little League Majors by downing the Herald Hawks, 13-2, last night. The Elks moved to within a half-game of the second spot Hawks by defeating Ralston Purina, 7-2.

A nine-hit attack was the major reason for the lop-sided score in the Bingman-Herald tilt. Marion Long blasted a homer and a triple, Glen Griebel lashed a three-bagger and a double and Davy biffed a two sacker.

Marion Long and Richard Radcliff split mound duties for the Drugmen. Long fanned two and gave up two hits and Radcliff whiffed four and allowed two hits.

Tom Wickerham started for the Hawks and went two frames. He walked two, fanned two and was touched for five bingles.

Tom Bowers relieved Wickerham and finished. He issued four walks, struck out six batters and scattered four hits.

The Drugmen were never hurting as they tallied six before the Hawks got moving. The winners scored in every frame but the fifth, with the biggest surge coming in the finale when they collected four runs.

The BPOE boys held Purina scoreless until the last frame when Rod Kasler tagged a homer with a man on for the only Purina tallies.

Richard Olney sparked the Elks in their eight bingle mangle as he routed three hits, a triple and two singles. Terry Morrison blasted a three sacker and Mike Sabine and Wertie Teets socked doubles.

Teets went the mound route for the Elks. He walked three, fanned 12 and allowed three hits.

Jeff Harr took the mound loss for Purina. He issued three bases on balls, put down four on strikes and was touched for eight hits.

Atlanta Solves Toledo's Jinx

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Atlanta Crackers knew the hex of Toledo pitcher Jack Cullen couldn't last forever.

Toledo made a major contribution toward knocking Atlanta out of first place in the International League standings, beating the Crackers nine times in 13 games this season.

Cullen had even a better record, having whipped Atlanta all three times he faced them. But his luck ran out Monday night as the Crackers jumped on him for three runs in the third inning and went on to win 7-4.

In other games, first place Columbus protected its 2½-game lead over Atlanta by nipping Jacksonville 2-1. Rochester handed Buffalo its seventh straight loss 7-2 and Toronto defeated Syracuse 5-3.

Countess Jerri Wins 9th Race at Scioto

Emmett Ebenhack drove his Countess Jerri in the ninth race at Scioto Downs last night, winning in 2:05 3-5.

It was the first win in four starts this year for the 4-year-old pacer.

Fred McFarren of Cleburne, Tex., will captain Army's 1966 golf team.

Willie Mays Aches, but Plans To Play

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — "I'm sore all over but I'm gonna play. The All-Star Game means too much to a lot of people. It's bigger than any one player."

Thus, in a few simple words, Willie Mays wrapped up his entire philosophy and burning desire which, together with a God-given ability, have combined to make him a showpiece for all baseball.

Although painfully injured in a collision at home plate Saturday night, the brilliant center fielder of the San Francisco Giants refused to use a throbbing right hip as an excuse to bow out of today's All-Star Game between the American and National leagues. In Willie's own words, a term often used but meaningful, nevertheless, "I came to play."

Despite Mays' unhealthy condition, the Nationals ruled a 7-5 favorite over the Americans in this 36th meeting between the two leagues. A victory would give the Nationals the lead in the series for the first time.

Since the game was inaugurated in 1933, each league has won 17 with one game ending in a tie. The National, however, has won six of the last eight games, with one a tie.

Two of the hottest right-handed pitchers in baseball, Juan Marichal of the Giants and Milt Pappas of the Baltimore Orioles, were named to start by the respective All-Star managers.

This was to be the first start for each although both have appeared in All-Star classics before. Marichal has appeared in three previous games and has come away with two victories without a defeat. He has given up just two hits and one earned run in five innings. Pappas has no decisions in two appearances, in which he has yielded one hit and one run in two innings.

There is little to choose between the two based on regular season work. Pappas, a 26-year-old from Timonium, Md., boasts a 9-3 regular season record with a 1.74 earned run average. He made his last start Friday when he hurled the Orioles to a 1-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Marichal, also 26 and a native of Santa Domingo, has a 14-7 record. His last start was Saturday night when he turned in a two-hitter against Philadelphia for his seventh shutout.

The six-day tourney, showcase of Ohio amateur golf, has 18-hole rounds scheduled today and Wednesday that will determine the 64 survivors who will battle it out in match play starting Thursday.

The title is up for grabs since last year's champion, Carl Unis of Cleveland, has turned professional.

Mosquito Loop Games Won By Cook's, Lumber Team

Cook Insurance knocked off K of C, 6-3, last night in the Mosquito League and Circleville Lumber downed Ankrum Lumber, 7-4.

The loss for K of C spoiled an unblemished record. But the Knights still hold down first place in the league.

K of C managed only one bingle in the six-frame game. The skillful hurling of Rex Riddle held the Knights to a single as he issued seven walks and struck out 12.

Mike Diltz started for K of C and lasted three innings. He walked seven and whiffed four. Brian Barthelmas relieved Mike in the fourth. He walked three, put down seven on strikes and gave up two hits.

RICK WILLSON tagged the only extra base bingle of the game, a double for the Insurance team.

Cooks blasted off to a 2-1 edge in the first and were never behind. K of C tied it up in the fourth, 3-3 but Cooks came on to tally two in the fifth and one in the sixth while holding the Knights scoreless.

Reds Hold Slight Edge Over Dodgers

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds remained just a bit ahead of Los Angeles today in the National League pennant race as play stopped in both leagues for the All-Star Game break.

The Reds have won 49 games and lost 36, a winning percentage of .576. The Dodgers have a .573 average with 51 victories and 38 losses.

But some of the Reds, at least, think they can go all the way as they did four years ago when the late Fred Hutchinson led them to their first pennant since 1940.

"There isn't a player on this ball club that doesn't believe we can win the pennant this year," says Gordy Coleman, one of the 1961 Reds veterans.

"It's our spirit as much as anything else. We have a lot of it. None of this rah-rah stuff, just a good, winning spirit."

The Reds may have the winning spirit, but they'll need better performance from some of their big hitters if they want to stay in contention. Right now Frank Robinson is hitting at a .297 pace and Vada Pinson is batting .296—both of them well off their 1961 performances.

2 Royals Sign Pacts For 1965-66 Season

CINCINNATI (AP) — Adrian Smith and Bud Olsen are the first Cincinnati Royals to have signed up for the 1965-66 professional basketball season.

Both returned their signed contracts Monday. The Royals start preseason workouts Sept. 14 at Miami University.

Rock Davis allowed six hits, six walks and fanned 15 for Circleville Lumber.

John Ankrom was charged with the loss for Ankrum Lumber, fanning 10, issuing four walks and giving up eight hits.

Mike Gillian slashed the only Circleville Lumber extra baser, a two bagger. Jeff Hawks and Ankrom bashed doubles for Ankrum's.

Third Bank Posts 10-0 Loop Win

The Third National Bank shut out Kochheiser Hardware, 10-0, yesterday in the lone Pony League game scheduled in the Circleville Youth Baseball Program.

The Kochheiser team was limited to four hits by D. Fausnaugh, the winning hurler. He whiffed 12 in his route going performance.

Randy Martin was the losing pitcher. He was relieved by Ronald Stevens.

Homeruns were hit by William Barthelmas and John Kurtz for the Bankers.

IN ADDITION, Barthelmas, along with Ronald Neal, Dick Walters, and Fausnaugh blasted triples.

For Kochheiser, Ty Ankrom's double was the lone extra base hit.

The Bankers now have a 5-3 season record while the Kochheiser nine has only one win in eight starts.

Kiwanis Unit Trips Bakers, Grabs Lead

Kiwanis moved back into the lead in the Babe Ruth Majors yesterday, defeating Lindsey Bakers, 14-2.

The win gives the Kiwanians a half-game lead in the league with an 8-2 record. Second place Butch Jewellers sport a 7-2 slate for the season. Lindsey's season mark is now 4-6.

After being shut out the first inning, the winners in last night's tilt scored in every other frame. The Bakers came up with a single run in the fifth and again in the seventh.

For the winners Steve Richardson blasted a triple while Criag Lambert belted two doubles. Bob Walisa of Lindsey's hit a triple.

THE WINNING pitcher was Bob Dean, who aided his own cause by cracking four bingles in as many trips to the plate. He fanned 17 and allowed only one hit in his route going performance.

Bob Oesterle was the losing pitcher. He fanned seven and was touched for 16 hits. Both teams were charged with four errors.

Willie Mays Aches, but Plans To Play

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — "I'm sore all over but I'm gonna play. The All-Star Game means too much to a lot of people. It's bigger than any one player."

Thus, in a few simple words, Willie Mays wrapped up his entire philosophy and burning desire which, together with a God-given ability, have combined to make him a showpiece for all baseball.

Although painfully injured in a collision at home plate Saturday night, the brilliant center fielder of the San Francisco Giants refused to use a throbbing right hip as an excuse to bow out of today's All-Star Game between the American and National leagues. In Willie's own words, a term often used but meaningful, nevertheless, "I came to play."

Despite Mays' unhealthy condition, the Nationals ruled a 7-5 favorite over the Americans in this 36th meeting between the two leagues. A victory would give the Nationals the lead in the series for the first time.

Since the game was inaugurated in 1933, each league has won 17 with one game ending in a tie. The National, however, has won six of the last eight games, with one a tie.

Two of the hottest right-handed pitchers in baseball, Juan Marichal of the Giants and Milt Pappas of the Baltimore Orioles, were named to start by the respective All-Star managers.

This was to be the first start for each although both have appeared in All-Star classics before. Marichal has appeared in three previous games and has come away with two victories without a defeat. He has given up just two hits and one earned run in five innings. Pappas has no decisions in two appearances, in which he has yielded one hit and one run in two innings.

There is little to choose between the two based on regular season work. Pappas, a 26-year-old from Timonium, Md., boasts a 9-3 regular season record with a 1.74 earned run average. He made his last start Friday when he hurled the Orioles to a 1-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Marichal, also 26 and a native of Santa Domingo, has a 14-7 record. His last start was Saturday night when he turned in a two-hitter against Philadelphia for his seventh shutout.

232 Belters Braced For Ohio Amateur

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)—A huge field of 232 Buckeye belters started shooting for qualifying spots today in the 59th annual Ohio Amateur Golf Tournament.

The six-day tourney, showcase of Ohio amateur golf, has 18-hole rounds scheduled today and Wednesday that will determine the 64 survivors who will battle it out in match play starting Thursday.

The title is up for grabs since last year's champion, Carl Units of Cleveland, has turned professional.

Mosquito Loop Games Won By Cook's, Lumber Team

Cook Insurance knocked off K of C, 6-3, last night in the Mosquito League and Circleville Lumber downed Ankrum Lumber, 7-4.

The loss for K of C spoiled an unblemished record. But the Knights still hold down first place in the league.

K of C managed only one bingle in the six-frame game. The skillful hurling of Rex Riddle held the Knights to a single as he issued seven walks and struck out 12.

Mike Diltz started for K of C and lasted three innings. He walked seven and whiffed four. Brian Barthelmas relieved Mike in the fourth. He walked three, put down seven on strikes and gave up two hits.

RICK WILLSON tagged the only extra base bingle of the game, a double for the Insurance team.

Cooks blasted off to a 2-1 edge in the first and were never behind. K of C tied it up in the fourth, 3-3 but Cooks came on to tally two in the fifth and one in the sixth while holding the Knights scoreless.

Reds Hold Slight Edge Over Dodgers

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds remained just a bit ahead of Los Angeles today in the National League pennant race as play stopped in both leagues for the All-Star Game break.

The Reds have won 49 games and lost 36, a winning percentage of .576. The Dodgers have a .573 average with 51 victories and 38 losses.

But some of the Reds, at least, think they can go all the way as they did four years ago when the late Fred Hutchinson led them to their first pennant since 1940.

"There isn't a player on this ball club that doesn't believe we can win the pennant this year," says Gordy Coleman, one of the 1961 Reds veterans.

"It's our spirit as much as anything else. We have a lot of it. None of this rah-rah stuff, just a good, winning spirit."

The Reds may have the winning spirit, but they'll need better performance from some of their big hitters if they want to stay in contention. Right now Frank Robinson is hitting at a .297 pace and Vada Pinson is batting .296—both of them well off their 1961 performances.

2 Royals Sign Pacts For 1965-66 Season

CINCINNATI (AP) — Adrian Smith and Bud Olsen are the first Cincinnati Royals to have signed up for the 1965-66 professional basketball season.

Both returned their signed contracts Monday. The Royals start preseason workouts Sept. 14 at Miami University.

Kiwanis Unit Trips Bakers, Grabs Lead

Kiwanis moved back into the lead in the Babe Ruth Majors yesterday, defeating Lindsey Bakers, 14-2.

The win gives the Kiwanians a half-game lead in the league with an 8-2 record. Second place Butch Jewellers sport a 7-2 slate for the season. Lindsey's season mark is now 4-6.

After being shut out the first inning, the winners in last night's tilt scored in every other frame. The Bakers came up with a single run in the fifth and again in the seventh.

For the winners Steve Richardson blasted a triple while Craig Lambert belted two doubles. Bob Walisa of Lindsey's hit a triple.

THE WINNING pitcher was Bob Dean, who aided his own cause by cracking four bingles in as many trips to the plate. He fanned 17 and allowed only one hit in his route going performance.

Bob Oesterle was the losing pitcher. He fanned seven and was touched for 16 hits. Both teams were charged with four errors.

Views on TV - Radio

ZERMATT, Switzerland (AP) — Viewers in Europe, the United States and Canada will climb the Matterhorn by live television Wednesday if the good weather holds out.

Four cameramen, all experienced British Alpinists, will climb to the summit of the famous 14,685-foot peak armed with portable television cameras to film their ascent and equipment to transmit the pictures on the spot.

The Early Bird space satellite will carry the pictures across the Atlantic.

The historic transmission marks the centenary of the conquest of the Matterhorn by Edward Whymper of England July 14, 1865. The cameramen will retrace Whymper's route.

At the same time four Swiss Alpinists and Scottish climber Ian McNaught-Davis will try to climb the peak's north wall, the most difficult route.

If conditions are favorable, the cameramen climbing Whymper's route will transmit live pictures of parts of the north-wall ascent as well.

Viewers will see the spot, just below the summit, where three English climbers and a French guide fell to their deaths during Whymper's climb. Only a broken rope saved the lives of Whymper and two Swiss guides.

For the past 10 days 20 British and Swiss technicians have been in the 12,000-foot-high Hoerhli hut setting up equipment. At the 8,000-foot Schwarzwitz terminal of the mountain cable car a temporary transmission center has been built.

The climbers will transmit their pictures to this center. From there they will go eventually to the Eurovision and East European television networks via the Eurovision technical center in Brussels. Early Bird will pick them up from ground stations in Britain and France.

The operation is made possible by 15-pound Japanese and French cameras to be carried by the climbers.

The four climbing British cameramen are Hamish McInnes, John Cleare, Robert Baillie and David Crabbe, of Dundee, Scotland. Accompanying them will be BBC commentator Chris Brasher, British gold medal winner in the 3,000-meter steeplechase at the 1956 Olympics.

One of the Swiss guides climbing with the cameramen Wednesday will be Heinrich Taughwalder, grandson of one of the survivors.

Ascent is scheduled to start at 5 a.m. — 11 p.m. EST Tuesday — from the Hoerhli hut. Television transmissions should start about 8 a.m. — 2 a.m. EST — Wednesday.

The climbers expect to reach the summit about 2 p.m. — 8 a.m. EST. Transmissions will continue for another hour.

New York Millionaire Eyes New Orleans Pro Football

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — "It takes money to make money" is the way David H. McConnell, who says he's willing to put up the millions for a National Football League franchise for New Orleans, explains his wealth.

The trimly built New Yorker, an investment banker, was introduced to New Orleans Monday, meeting first the sports writers and then business and civic leaders.

He goes to Baton Rouge today for a meeting with Gov. John McKeithen, who has pledged his assistance in the campaign to land a franchise in the expanding league. On Thursday, the governor flies to New York with McConnell for a meeting with NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Dave Dixon, the lawyer who has been promoting for a pro football team for more than three years, says McConnell was selected from a group of six men who each said they'd finance a franchise.

But McConnell, who says he wants badly to own a pro team, had his eye on New Orleans even before meeting Dixon.

The NFL recently awarded a franchise for its 15th team to Atlanta for an estimated $9 million. The league says it will add another team for the 1967 season.

The 39-year-old McConnell, father of five girls, told newsmen that in his opinion New Orleans "economically is every bit the equal of Atlanta—if not its superior. But Atlanta has a public relations firm working for it in New York and perhaps that's why we hear more about it."

McConnell, a decorated Marine Corps combat veteran of both World War II and the Korean War, pledged that he would never shift an NFL franchise to another city if he obtains one.

Youths Pace Publinx Test

Boys, 16 and 19, Leading 'Old Men'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A couple of youngsters with strong legs and cold disdain for the brutal hills of North Park golf course showed the "old men" the way today into the second 18-hole stroke play qualifying round of the National Public Links Golf Tournament.

The youngsters were James Masserio, 16-year-old Pittsburgh high school student who approaches each shot with the calculation of a Ben Hogan, and 19-year-old Al Bailey, a college student from Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

They carded even par 71's Monday over the 6,781-yard par 36-55-71 course that sprawls across a series of hills 20 miles north of Pittsburgh.

Masserio, holder of the 1964 state and city public links titles, was rebuked by officials of the sanctioning U.S. Golf Association and told to speed up his play today or face a penalty.

One stroke back at 72 was a group of four players that included defending champion Bill McDonald, 21-year-old music student from Topeka, Kan., and Francis Clifford, 38-year-old bricklayer and father of six from Boston.

The field will be cut to the low 64 scorers after today's final 18 holes of stroke play. Match play starts Wednesday with the two survivors meeting Saturday in a grueling 36-hole finale for the James D. Standish Cup and exemption from qualifying for the National Amateur later this summer.

Tied with Clifford and McDonald at 72 were Hubert Farmer of Toledo, Ohio, and Wendell Kop, 30-year-old engineer from Honolulu.

Burglars Have Trouble Getting Out of Joint

To get out they had to dismantle a door lock that must be opened with a key even from the inside, said the detectives.

Wind Damage Aid Requests End July 30

Limited funds are available for emergency conservation or emergency conservation measures, similar to the Agricultural Conservation Program, relative to wind damage suffered in the April 11-12 tornado that struck this area.

Pickaway was designated as one of 16 Ohio wind damage disaster counties by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Farmers may be eligible for cost-sharing if wind damage created new conservation problems on farms which: (1) if not treated will impair or endanger the land, (2) materially affect the productive capacity of the land, (3) represent damage which is unusual in character and is not of the type which would recur frequently in the same area, and (4) will be so costly to rehabilitate that Federal assistance is required to return the land to productive agricultural use.

Several practices are available if the producer requests assistance before the practice is started. However, July 30 is the final date for accepting requests for assistance under the Emergency Conservation Measures—Wind Damage Program.

All interested persons may contact the Pickaway Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County office, 206 S. Court St. in Circleville for additional information.

Mexican Gangplank Is a Little Wobbly

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Mexican navy paid a friendly visit to Portland recently but it almost turned into an international incident.

An admiral, Mexican naval officers and cadets stood attentively on the decks of the two warships. On shore, city officials and scores of townspeople nervously watched.

Then some workmen hurriedly used some makeshift stabilizers to make the gangplank firm and safe so the ceremony could proceed after a wobbly start.

Burglars Have Trouble Getting Out of Joint

To get out they had to dismantle a door lock that must be opened with a key even from the inside, said the detectives.

Wind Damage Aid Requests End July 30

Limited funds are available for emergency conservation or emergency conservation measures, similar to the Agricultural Conservation Program, relative to wind damage suffered in the April 11-12 tornado that struck this area.

Pickaway was designated as one of 16 Ohio wind damage disaster counties by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Farmers may be eligible for cost-sharing if wind damage created new conservation problems on farms which: (1) if not treated will impair or endanger the land, (2) materially affect the productive capacity of the land, (3) represent damage which is unusual in character and is not of the type which would recur frequently in the same area, and (4) will be so costly to rehabilitate that Federal assistance is required to return the land to productive agricultural use.

Several practices are available if the producer requests assistance before the practice is started. However, July 30 is the final date for accepting requests for assistance under the Emergency Conservation Measures—Wind Damage Program.

All interested persons may contact the Pickaway Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County office, 206 S. Court St. in Circleville for additional information.
